Steel Strike Delay Plan Fails

House Votes World War 1 Vets Pension

Men Over 65 Within Income Limit Qualify

Provides $90 Month As Decision To Kill Measure Reversed

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The House, after hectic debate, today passed and sent to the Senate a bill to increase veterans pensions and extend special benefits to World War I veterans—even those who are not disabled.

The 364-51 roll-call vote came in a topsy-turvy session that saw the House decide at one point to kill the bill. This decision was quickly reversed, however, and the measure was voted along to an uncertain election year future.

In addition to increasing the pensions of veterans who are rated permanently and totally disabled, the bill would provide $90-a-month pensions for all World War I veterans at age 65 who come within specified income limits.

Opponents succeeded in knocking from the bill, by a parliamentary maneuver, all provisions for boosting nonpension benefits to veterans with service-incurred disability and to widows and dependents of veterans.

This was done in an effort to ruin the measure's chances of passing the Senate and winning approval from President Eisenhower.

Chairman Teague (D-Tex) of the House Veterans Affairs Committee said any bill that did not give priority to veterans disabled because of military service would be rejected by the Senate or vetoed by Eisenhower, even in an election year.

The bill was backed by both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. But the size of the pension increases, and the over-all scope of the measure, were not nearly as great as originally approved by the Veterans Affairs Committee over Teague's opposition.

Teague estimated the first year cost of the new bill would be 356 million dollars. The administration had estimated the first year cost of the original proposal at 1¼ billion dollars.

The committee had recommended general pensions for all veterans but Rep. Sisk (D-Calif) moved successfully to extend the $90 payments only to veterans of World War I. Sisk argued they were "a deserving group of men" who did not benefit from any GI Bill of Rights.

Five Killed In Collision Of Truck And Auto

A passenger car collided with a truck (under arrow) near Nassau, N. Y., yesterday, killing Air Force Capt. James H. Waters of the Plattsburgh, N. Y., base, his wife, two young sons and Gerald Burdick, 14, Elmira Heights, N. Y. The top was sheered from the auto. State Police said the truck apparently went out of control. (AP Photofax)

Controversial Rights Bill Sent To House Floor

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The House Rules Committee today voted 8-3 to send the bitterly fought civil rights bill to the House floor for a vote.

Southerners have sought to keep it bottled up in the committee in the belief it would pass if brought to a vote.

Chairman Smith (D-Va) said the bill may be scheduled for House action during the week beginning July 9.

Stormy Session Guaranteed

The rule granted by the committee allows two days general debate on the bill, guaranteeing a roaring session with most if not all the Southern members—about 100—seeking an opportunity to denounce the measure.

Southerners talked against the bill before the Rules Committee most of today. The cutoff time on hearings enforced by the committee majority favoring the legislation found about 12 Southerners still waiting to speak.

Rep. Colmer (D-Miss), a Rules Committee member, protested it was "unprecedented" to close the hearings while members of the House were still waiting to be heard.

Bill Sets Up Commission

But Rep. Bolling (D-Mo) said there was precedent and that equal time had been allotted to both sides.

The bill would:

1. Create a bipartisan commission and a permanent Civil Rights Division in the Department of Justice.

2. Authorize the attorney general to bring civil suits in federal court for injunctions or other relief for persons whose civil rights are infringed, and would make it easier for such persons to go direct to federal courts themselves.

George Asks Senate To Restore Aid Slash

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Veteran Sen. George of Georgia appealed to the Senate today to raise "the best hopes of mankind" by restoring 700 million dollars to President Eisenhower's foreign aid program.

In one of the last major speeches he will make on the Senate floor, the 78-year-old Democratic leader said the dangers of war cannot be avoided "if we begin in this bill to liquidate the military strength of the Free World."

George spoke to a hushed Senate for nearly an hour and seemed on the verge of tears when he finished. Many senators shook his hand at the end of the speech, including some who are set on sharp cuts in the administration's mutual security program.

George is retiring from the Senate at the end of the year but will remain in the field of foreign affairs as Eisenhower's ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

George Defends NATO

As chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, he is leading the battle for adoption of a 4½ billion dollar foreign aid program for the fiscal year beginning Sunday.

"Is there anyone in this body or in America who believes we can abandon our world responsibilities without the gravest consequences to humanity?" George asked the Senate.

He said he anticipated some criticism of NATO during the debate, but asserted "NATO has been the shield that has stood between the free nations of Europe and the Russian aggressor."

Proposals are pending in the Senate to cut the foreign aid program as much as two billion dollars below the amount Eisenhower requested.

Debate To Be Limited

The way was cleared to start voting on amendments to the bill tomorrow when majority leader Johnson (D-Tex) got unanimous agreement to limit the debate starting at 3 p.m.

An hour was allotted for each amendment, with the time to be divided by the opposing sides. Debate on final passage may come on Friday.

In a speech following George's, Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee in the Senate, said the United States must abandon its "soft-headed" policy toward "neutralist" nations like Yugoslavia and India.

Bridges did not say how much money he would vote for, but declared: "If anyone can show me why we should provide more money, I should like to be shown."

Runaway Truck Smashes Cars, Killing Woman

TITUSVILLE, Pa., June 27 (AP)—A truck loaded with concrete blocks, rumbling down a steep hill with its brakes gone, smashed into two vehicles today on a busy boulevard.

Killed was Mrs. Virginia E. Bayne, 35, New Kensington, Pa. Her husband, D. W. Bayne, 41, and two sons, James, 15, and David Jr., 9, were admitted to Titusville hospital.

The husband and the two sons suffered contusions and cuts. Attaches said the Bayne family was en route to Canada for a vacation.

Police said the truck first smashed into the Bayne auto, wedging it under the front of the truck. The truck and auto then continued down the street, clipping the rear of another car and spinning it to the side.

Herbert Hogue, 22, of Oil City, Pa., the truck driver, said his brakes let go on the steep grade and he immediately applied the horn, laying on it all the way down the hill.

Dulles Believes Russia Losing Some Of Control

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles said today Moscow's control over foreign Communist parties has been "very much shaken and loosened" by Soviet government's revelations about Stalin's reign of terror.

Dulles broadly hinted at a news conference that perhaps even the future of party chief Nikita Khrushchev, the man who disclosed Stalin's crimes, might be at stake in the Communist party furor.

He told reporters he was "very much tempted" to say whether he thought Khrushchev's leadership was endangered but that "I had better contain myself."

Even as Dulles spoke, news dispatches told of a sensation created in Moscow by the publication in Pravda of implied criticism of Khrushchev and other Russian leaders. The Communist party paper gave much space to an article by Eugene Dennis, secretary of the U. S. Communist party, asking what present Soviet leaders did, if anything, to halt the excesses of Stalin.

Dennis took some of the sting out of the critical question by praising the present Moscow regime as one of "courage, honesty, assurance and collective spirit."

Just why Pravda decided to publish the article was not clear. Moscow dispatches said the decisions obviously was taken at the highest party level and that publication was evidently authorized by Khrushchev himself.

Dulles said international communism is in a state of perplexity and at internal odds "because certain basic truths have caught up with it."

Because of unity in the free world, he said, communism has not been able to conquer any more countries in recent years — and "with the lack of victories, there is revolt against the harsh discipline exemplified by Stalin."

Dulles rejected any idea that criticism of current Soviet leadership by Italian, British and American Communist party figures was a "preconceived plan" aimed at fooling the Western world.

Worker Trapped In Refrigerated Truck Perishes

BALTIMORE, June 27 (AP)—A refrigerated truck was loaded with dry ice today and started for Wilmington, Del.

A short time after it left, employes at the plant noticed one of the workers was missing.

State police were asked to check the truck. Troopers located it just across the state line into Delaware.

Inside the truck they found Thomas George Hock, 34, of Baltimore, frozen to death.

No Red Open Meetings

BERLIN, June 27 (AP)—East German Communists disclosed today they have banned open meetings of their party in order to cover up party strife over Stalinism.

Senate OKs D.C. Funds

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to the White House a compromise bill carrying $181,612,000 in appropriations for the District of Columbia. The money is for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Pravda Critical Of Soviet Chiefs

Asks Whether Leaders Tried To Stop Stalin

MOSCOW, June 27 (AP)—Pravda published today an unprecedented criticism of the present Kremlin leadership. It asked indirectly whether the current leaders ever tried to stop Stalin in his latter-day excesses.

It did so by reprinting an article that contained the question. The article was by Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States. It appeared in the New York Daily Worker of June 18.

The Communist bellwether Pravda, in copying it, carried the first direct or implied criticism of the present Soviet leadership ever published here.

Propaganda Policy Shift

It also carried the first locally published report that Nikita S. Khrushchev, boss of the Soviet Communist party, had denounced the late Prime Minister Stalin in a secret speech to the party's 20th Congress in February, and that the U.S. State Department later had issued a purported partial text of that speech.

The Pravda reprinting, running on three pages, marked a radical shift in Soviet propaganda policy. It created a sensation among Moscow people, many of whom could be seen reading copies posted on walls. Dennis had written:

"In the discussion on the 20th Congress currently being centered around the special Khrushchev report, questions frequently arise about the present Soviet leadership.

Questions Unanswered

"Did some of them try to bring about changes before the last three years? Could the past evils have been checked earlier? How big and serious are the changes now under way?

"Many questions remained unanswered. The Khrushchev report, which was primarily a documented supplement to his main political report to the 20th Congress, reflects only a part of the probing that has gone on, and which may continue for years to come, in the CPSU (Communist Party of the Soviet Union) and among the Soviet people."

Wilson Doesn't Intend To Quit

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, who has been under fire in the Senate, said tonight he has no intention of resigning.

Wilson, returning from a short vacation in Canada, told newsmen that "The price of progress is trouble and I must be making a lot of progress."

He had stirred up a senatorial storm last week by using the word "phony" at a news conference discussion of senatorial moves to increase the Air Force budget. Democrats demanded he resign. Wilson later said he had been misunderstood, that he never meant to apply the word to senators.

The Senate yesterday proceeded to increase Air Force funds by nearly a billion dollars, contrary to the wishes of President Eisenhower and Wilson.

Indicted For Holdup

BALTIMORE June 27 (AP) — George Avery Williams, 35, of Elkton was indicted late today by the Federal Grand Jury on charges of robbing the First National Bank of North East last May 23.

The three-count indictment charges Williams stole $8,998 from the bank and endangered the life of the bank teller with a sawed off shotgun.

Governors End Conference With Stormy Session

ATLANTIC CITY, June 27 (AP)—The 48th annual governors' conference declined today in a row over federal aid to endorse the program of President Eisenhower's White House conference on education.

In a stormy windup session behind closed doors, the governors also rapped the Supreme Court's decision on state antisedition laws. This involved a flurry of debate over segregation.

The governors also eased Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan off their executive committee, of which he has been a member four times, and out of any chance for the conference chairmanship.

Instead, the chief executives named Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia, a Democrat whose political views are far removed from those of Williams, as their chairman. The understanding was that next year's meeting will go to Williamsburg, Va.

In what was described as a highly acrimonious session, the governors tabled a proposal to endorse not only the White House conference report on education but the Eisenhower-sponsored study of higher education.

The White House report recommended federal aid only for states which it said must have such help.

Resolution Adopted

The segregation squabble and the crack at the Supreme Court were tied together.

The governors adopted a resolution saying:

"Members of this conference are gravely concerned by decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States which have held that congressional enactments supersede state laws on the matters involved and thereby pre-empt those fields for the federal government alone. Judicial interpretations of this character seriously handicap the states in the regulation and administration of their internal affairs."

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland refused at first to vote for the resolution on grounds it also attacked the Supreme Court decision outlawing racially segregated public schools.

The ensuing argument kept a closed door session of the governors going overtime. Gov. Leo A. Hoegy of Iowa finally succeeded in winning McKeldin over.

"I was assured," McKeldin told newsmen, "that it was a matter of states rights and had nothing to do with the segregation question, so I voted for it."

President Approves Contributions Policy

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower today approved a new policy limiting solicitation of contributions by federal workers to health and welfare organizations.

The policy, to be followed by an executive order putting it into effect, would ban the assignment of solicitation quotas to government agencies or employes. It also would limit contribution drives to a maximum of three a year.

Negotiations On Extending Pact Collapse

Management, Union Leaders Turn Down Counter-Proposals

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)— The nation's major steel companies and the big United Steelworkers Union tonight rejected each other's proposals to stave off a Saturday midnight strike in the key, 650,000-man industry.

Wage contract talks were to continue, however, as the negotiations entered the critical stage with the strike deadline only 72 hours away.

Some steel companies said they were starting tonight to cool their huge furnaces to prevent damage to the equipment.

Both sides tossed the strike postponement issue back and forth like a hot potato. Three formal letters passed between company and union leaders.

The chronology went like this: First the 12 major steel companies proposed an indefinite postponement of the strike to avoid shutting down the furnaces and to permit continued negotiations.

Written Notice Of Strike

The proposal also provided for 72 hours' written notice from the union if it decided to strike at any time after the Saturday deadline.

The proposal included as well an offer to reduce the length of the contract slightly "with a proportionate reduction of the benefits" the companies had offered with a five-year no-strike contract.

Union President David J. McDonald rejected this in an answering letter. The union has objected strongly to a five-year contract. The expiring contract was for two years with a wage reopener.

However, McDonald offered to put off the strike for two weeks—until July 16—provided any agreement reached in later negotiations was made retroactive to July 1.

This signaled another conference of company negotiators.

Retroactivity Unacceptable

Then management rejected McDonald's counter-proposal, saying it could not accept the retroactivity provision.

The third letter, signed by U.S. Steel Vice President John A. Stephens, an industry spokesman, said:

"The companies, while desirous of continuing the negotiations and postponement of the strike, cannot, nevertheless, accept a retroactivity condition which you attach to your willingness to extend.

"Continued negotiations should be conducted with equal pressure on both parties, a condition not present when the union is guaranteed by retroactivity that no matter how it may delay agreement it has nothing to lose."

Vice President Nixon Will Visit Viet Nam

WASHINGTON, June 27 (INS)—The White House announced today that Vice President Richard M. Nixon will pay a visit to the Republic of Viet Nam after his trip to the Philippines early next month.

The invitation to Nixon was extended by President Ngo Vinh Diem, whose country is celebrating the second anniversary of his government on July 7.

Mrs. Nixon will accompany the vice president to the Philippines and then to the Vietnamese capital of Saigon.

Baltimore Fugitive Nabbed In New York

NEW YORK, June 27 (INS)—FBI Agents today captured a fugitive from Baltimore in a chase that led from a Manhattan rooming house through a subway train and into the lobby of a Broadway hotel.

James J. Kelly, special agent in charge of the New York FBI office, announced the arrest of Eugene Rambert on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and assault with intent to kill.

On April 7, Baltimore police attempted to apprehend Rambert when he exchanged shots with them. A warrant filed by Baltimore police charged Rambert with assault and shooting. When it was learned he fled across state lines to New York, the FBI was asked to intervene.

Hammarskjold Leaves

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold, secretary general of the United Nations, left today by plane for a month's tour of countries within the Soviet orbit.

Countries on Hammarskjold's itinerary include Russia, Yugoslavia, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Band Concert Brings Ike To Hospital Room Window

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower, clad in blue pajamas, appeared at the window of his hospital room tonight and waved as the U.S. Army Band played a concert on the grounds of Walter Reed Hospital.

The President evently enjoyed this first public "appearance" since his operation, for he did it twice again, with his wife beside him.

The concert was given across a road from the hospital building, several hundred feet from the Eisenhower room.

The 70-man band, conducted by Maj. Hugh Cury, played "Army Blue." That brought the President to the window waving.

Then, partly in response to calls from news cameramen with their telephoto lenses trained on his third floor, ivy rimmed room, the President appeared twice again, both times with Mrs. Eisenhower beside him.

He appeared to be in excellent spirits on all three appearances, particularly on the last one when the band came charging up a slope from its bandstand and played "Man of the Hour" for him.

Eisenhower had not been scheduled to make even a semi public appearance until he was released from the hospital, probably Saturday.

Experiment In TV Teaching To Be Launched At Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 27 (AP)—A bold, new plan to find out if teaching by television in public schools is feasible will be launched on a countywide basis in this western Maryland area next fall.

Backing the experimental — but full-scale—program will be the resources and know-how of the country's electronics manufacturers and the Ford Foundation.

The goal, simply, is this:

Teacher Mary Brown will sit in a room and give the day's lessons to any number of students in classrooms throughout the county. They can be history, English or even mathematics.

If Johnny in Hagerstown, or Clear Spring, or Hancock, has a question, he can ask it through a two-way audio hookup. Or Miss Brown can ask Susie, in Smithsburg or Boonsboro, to explain a problem.

The purposes of the plan are (1) to find out just how far education can go toward utilizing television, and (2) to meet the increasing threat of teacher shortage.

The outlay for the program could cost "well over a million dollars," School Superintendent William M. Brish explained, although he and others working out the details insisted no price tag could be placed on it.

W. R. G. Baker, vice president of General Electric and president of the Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers Assn. called it "strictly a research project."

"It's impossible to evaluate the end result," he said, "and it's impractical to estimate its cost."

The announcement of the project was made jointly today by Brish, Baker and John K. Weiss of the Fund for the Advancement of Education, backed by the Ford Foundation.

Weiss said the Fund probably would put $50,000 to $75,000 into the project this year. The school board has no appropriation in its current budget for the program, and at this point does not anticipate a sizable increase for the next calendar year.

The Washington County school system was selected from about 40 applicants for the test, Weiss said, because it was one of the first to express a desire for it and because it was considered typical of county school systems throughout the country.

When the program is launched next September, it will be used an hour a day by more than 6,000 students in two high schools and six elementary schools in Hagerstown. Present plans call for extension of the plan to the entire county school system in two years, with all 47 schools supplied with closed-circuit equipment and 20,000 pupils receiving televised instruction.

Thomas Says Potent New Antisub Weapon 'On Hand'

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Thomas, outlining for Congress the latest advances in the seagoing service, made cryptic reference today to a new secret weapon "which will revolutionize antisubmarine warfare."

Thomas did not elaborate on the nature of this development. He said only that the Navy has such a weapon "on hand."

His statement, made before a Senate subcommittee investigating the relative strength of U.S. and Russian air power, was considered significant because Soviet sea power is concentrated in submarines.

That the Navy is ready to meet the Soviet submarine threat was questioned by Chairman Symington (D-Mo).

After hearing Thomas' report, Symington said Russia's production of far greater numbers of undersea craft "is not being recognized as it should be by the U.S. Navy."

Thomas hotly disagreed, saying the Navy is moving as rapidly as possible to push its own program of building atomic-powered subs.

Protection of the Navy's carrier task forces against undersea attack is a prime objective because, Thomas said, the crippling of land air bases might give the Navy "the balance of power in a struggle for survival."

Thomas said the Navy air arm is "far more powerful than many of us have realized." He said carrier-based bombers can transport hydrogen bombs to all but "a few important targets in the world."

Propaganda Policy Shift

It also carried the first locally published report that Nikita S. Khrushchev, boss of the Soviet Communist party, had denounced the late Prime Minister Stalin in a secret speech to the party's 20th Congress in February, and that the U.S. State Department later had issued a purported partial text of that speech.

The Pravda reprinting, running on three pages, marked a radical shift in Soviet propaganda policy. It created a sensation among Moscow people, many of whom could be seen reading copies posted on walls. Dennis had written:

"In the discussion on the 20th Congress currently being centered around the special Khrushchev report, questions frequently arise about the present Soviet leadership.

Questions Unanswered

"Did some of them try to bring about changes before the last three years? Could the past evils have been checked earlier? How big and serious are the changes now under way?

"Many questions remained unanswered. The Khrushchev report, which was primarily a documented supplement to his main political report to the 20th Congress, reflects only a part of the probing that has gone on, and which may continue for years to come, in the CPSU (Communist Party of the Soviet Union) and among the Soviet people."

Wilson Doesn't Intend To Quit

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, who has been under fire in the Senate, said tonight he has no intention of resigning.

Wilson, returning from a short vacation in Canada, told newsmen that "The price of progress is trouble and I must be making a lot of progress."

He had stirred up a senatorial storm last week by using the word "phony" at a news conference discussion of senatorial moves to increase the Air Force budget. Democrats demanded he resign. Wilson later said he had been misunderstood, that he never meant to apply the word to senators.

The Senate yesterday proceeded to increase Air Force funds by nearly a billion dollars, contrary to the wishes of President Eisenhower and Wilson.

Indicted For Holdup

BALTIMORE June 27 (AP) — George Avery Williams, 35, of Elkton was indicted late today by the Federal Grand Jury on charges of robbing the First National Bank of North East last May 23.

The three-count indictment charges Williams stole $8,998 from the bank and endangered the life of the bank teller with a sawed off shotgun.

Governors End Conference With Stormy Session

ATLANTIC CITY, June 27 (AP)—The 48th annual governors' conference declined today in a row over federal aid to endorse the program of President Eisenhower's White House conference on education.

In a stormy windup session behind closed doors, the governors also rapped the Supreme Court's decision on state antisedition laws. This involved a flurry of debate over segregation.

The governors also eased Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan off their executive committee, of which he has been a member four times, and out of any chance for the conference chairmanship.

Instead, the chief executives named Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia, a Democrat whose political views are far removed from those of Williams, as their chairman. The understanding was that next year's meeting will go to Williamsburg, Va.

In what was described as a highly acrimonious session, the governors tabled a proposal to endorse not only the White House conference report on education but the Eisenhower-sponsored study of higher education.

The White House report recommended federal aid only for states which it said must have such help.

Resolution Adopted

The segregation squabble and the crack at the Supreme Court were tied together.

The governors adopted a resolution saying:

"Members of this conference are gravely concerned by decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States which have held that congressional enactments supersede state laws on the matters involved and thereby pre-empt those fields for the federal government alone. Judicial interpretations of this character seriously handicap the states in the regulation and administration of their internal affairs."

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland refused at first to vote for the resolution on grounds it also attacked the Supreme Court decision outlawing racially segregated public schools.

The ensuing argument kept a closed door session of the governors going overtime. Gov. Leo A. Hoegy of Iowa finally succeeded in winning McKeldin over.

"I was assured," McKeldin told newsmen, "that it was a matter of states rights and had nothing to do with the segregation question, so I voted for it."

President Approves Contributions Policy

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP) — President Eisenhower today approved a new policy limiting solicitation of contributions by federal workers to health and welfare organizations.

The policy, to be followed by an executive order putting it into effect, would ban the assignment of solicitation quotas to government agencies or employes. It also would limit contribution drives to a maximum of three a year.

Negotiations On Extending Pact Collapse

Management, Union Leaders Turn Down Counter-Proposals

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)— The nation's major steel companies and the big United Steelworkers Union tonight rejected each other's proposals to stave off a Saturday midnight strike in the key, 650,000-man industry.

Wage contract talks were to continue, however, as the negotiations entered the critical stage with the strike deadline only 72 hours away.

Some steel companies said they were starting tonight to cool their huge furnaces to prevent damage to the equipment.

Both sides tossed the strike postponement issue back and forth like a hot potato. Three formal letters passed between company and union leaders.

The chronology went like this: First the 12 major steel companies proposed an indefinite postponement of the strike to avoid shutting down the furnaces and to permit continued negotiations.

Written Notice Of Strike

The proposal also provided for 72 hours' written notice from the union if it decided to strike at any time after the Saturday deadline.

The proposal included as well an offer to reduce the length of the contract slightly "with a proportionate reduction of the benefits" the companies had offered with a five-year no-strike contract.

Union President David J. McDonald rejected this in an answering letter. The union has objected strongly to a five-year contract. The expiring contract was for two years with a wage reopener.

However, McDonald offered to put off the strike for two weeks—until July 16—provided any agreement reached in later negotiations was made retroactive to July 1.

This signaled another conference of company negotiators.

Retroactivity Unacceptable

Then management rejected McDonald's counter-proposal, saying it could not accept the retroactivity provision.

The third letter, signed by U.S. Steel Vice President John A. Stephens, an industry spokesman, said:

"The companies, while desirous of continuing the negotiations and postponement of the strike, cannot, nevertheless, accept a retroactivity condition which you attach to your willingness to extend.

"Continued negotiations should be conducted with equal pressure on both parties, a condition not present when the union is guaranteed by retroactivity that no matter how it may delay agreement it has nothing to lose."

Vice President Nixon Will Visit Viet Nam

WASHINGTON, June 27 (INS)—The White House announced today that Vice President Richard M. Nixon will pay a visit to the Republic of Viet Nam after his trip to the Philippines early next month.

The invitation to Nixon was extended by President Ngo Vinh Diem, whose country is celebrating the second anniversary of his government on July 7.

Mrs. Nixon will accompany the vice president to the Philippines and then to the Vietnamese capital of Saigon.

Baltimore Fugitive Nabbed In New York

NEW YORK, June 27 (INS)—FBI Agents today captured a fugitive from Baltimore in a chase that led from a Manhattan rooming house through a subway train and into the lobby of a Broadway hotel.

James J. Kelly, special agent in charge of the New York FBI office, announced the arrest of Eugene Rambert on charges of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution and assault with intent to kill.

On April 7, Baltimore police attempted to apprehend Rambert when he exchanged shots with them. A warrant filed by Baltimore police charged Rambert with assault and shooting. When it was learned he fled across state lines to New York, the FBI was asked to intervene.

Hammarskjold Leaves

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold, secretary general of the United Nations, left today by plane for a month's tour of countries within the Soviet orbit.

Countries on Hammarskjold's itinerary include Russia, Yugoslavia, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

Band Concert Brings Ike To Hospital Room Window

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—President Eisenhower, clad in blue pajamas, appeared at the window of his hospital room tonight and waved as the U.S. Army Band played a concert on the grounds of Walter Reed Hospital.

The President evently enjoyed this first public "appearance" since his operation, for he did it twice again, with his wife beside him.

The concert was given across a road from the hospital building, several hundred feet from the Eisenhower room.

The 70-man band, conducted by Maj. Hugh Cury, played "Army Blue." That brought the President to the window waving.

Then, partly in response to calls from news cameramen with their telephoto lenses trained on his third floor, ivy rimmed room, the President appeared twice again, both times with Mrs. Eisenhower beside him.

He appeared to be in excellent spirits on all three appearances, particularly on the last one when the band came charging up a slope from its bandstand and played "Man of the Hour" for him.

Eisenhower had not been scheduled to make even a semi public appearance until he was released from the hospital, probably Saturday.

Experiment In TV Teaching To Be Launched At Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 27 (AP)—A bold, new plan to find out if teaching by television in public schools is feasible will be launched on a countywide basis in this western Maryland area next fall.

Backing the experimental — but full-scale—program will be the resources and know-how of the country's electronics manufacturers and the Ford Foundation.

The goal, simply, is this:

Teacher Mary Brown will sit in a room and give the day's lessons to any number of students in classrooms throughout the county. They can be history, English or even mathematics.

If Johnny in Hagerstown, or Clear Spring, or Hancock, has a question, he can ask it through a two-way audio hookup. Or Miss Brown can ask Susie, in Smithsburg or Boonsboro, to explain a problem.

The purposes of the plan are (1) to find out just how far education can go toward utilizing television, and (2) to meet the increasing threat of teacher shortage.

The outlay for the program could cost "well over a million dollars," School Superintendent William M. Brish explained, although he and others working out the details insisted no price tag could be placed on it.

W. R. G. Baker, vice president of General Electric and president of the Radio-Electronics-Television Manufacturers Assn. called it "strictly a research project."

"It's impossible to evaluate the end result," he said, "and it's impractical to estimate its cost."

The announcement of the project was made jointly today by Brish, Baker and John K. Weiss of the Fund for the Advancement of Education, backed by the Ford Foundation.

Weiss said the Fund probably would put $50,000 to $75,000 into the project this year. The school board has no appropriation in its current budget for the program, and at this point does not anticipate a sizable increase for the next calendar year.

The Washington County school system was selected from about 40 applicants for the test, Weiss said, because it was one of the first to express a desire for it and because it was considered typical of county school systems throughout the country.

When the program is launched next September, it will be used an hour a day by more than 6,000 students in two high schools and six elementary schools in Hagerstown. Present plans call for extension of the plan to the entire county school system in two years, with all 47 schools supplied with closed-circuit equipment and 20,000 pupils receiving televised instruction.

Thomas Says Potent New Antisub Weapon 'On Hand'

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Thomas, outlining for Congress the latest advances in the seagoing service, made cryptic reference today to a new secret weapon "which will revolutionize antisubmarine warfare."

Thomas did not elaborate on the nature of this development. He said only that the Navy has such a weapon "on hand."

His statement, made before a Senate subcommittee investigating the relative strength of U.S. and Russian air power, was considered significant because Soviet sea power is concentrated in submarines.

That the Navy is ready to meet the Soviet submarine threat was questioned by Chairman Symington (D-Mo).

After hearing Thomas' report, Symington said Russia's production of far greater numbers of undersea craft "is not being recognized as it should be by the U.S. Navy."

Thomas hotly disagreed, saying the Navy is moving as rapidly as possible to push its own program of building atomic-powered subs.

Protection of the Navy's carrier task forces against undersea attack is a prime objective because, Thomas said, the crippling of land air bases might give the Navy "the balance of power in a struggle for survival."

Thomas said the Navy air arm is "far more powerful than many of us have realized." He said carrier-based bombers can transport hydrogen bombs to all but "a few important targets in the world."

Twining Cool To Lear In Moscow Meeting

MOSCOW, June 27 (AP)—William P. Lear, wealthy American plane equipment maker, flew his Russian hosts around Moscow today in the small plane he brought into Russia yesterday. But he was cold-shouldered by the visiting Gen. Nathan Twining, U.S. Air Force chief when their paths crossed briefly.

Twining has been refused permission by the Russians to fly his own plane on a visit to Stalingrad tomorrow. Instead, he will be flown in a Soviet plane and for the first time will be permitted to take American newsmen with him on an inspection trip.

Lear and his wife came into a hotel room where Twining was briefing reporters on a trip to Soviet air factories today where U.S., British and French official air delegations saw jet engins and an improved type transport.

Twining had just been asked by a reporter about military implications of Lear's flight into the Soviet Union with gear that has been banned by NATO for export to Soviet bloc countries. Twining expressed surprise. Then he said emphatically it was a civilian matter and the Air Force was not involved.

A reporter then told Twining: "General, here's an old friend of yours." He barely said hello and made no move to shake hands with Lear.

The Lears retired into the corridor. Later Lear said he understood the gathering was a cocktail party.

Lear was the first American to fly a personal plane into the Soviet Union. He is a guest of the Soviet Ministry of Trade and predicted on his arrival from Berlin yesterday that NATO embargoes soon would be ended.

Twining denied at his news conference that he had carried an invitation from President Eisenhower to Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov for Soviet air officers to attend the Oklahoma City air show. "Didn't even discuss it," he said.

The American and British visitors appeared disappointed by the limited phase of the Red aircraft industry they have been permitted to see. Twining called the trip interesting, however.

GPO All Abuzz As Bees Escape

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)— The General Post Office was all abuzz today.

A shipping case containing thousands of bees broke open. Between 300 and 500 bees escaped.

While some employes slapped wildly and others retreated, Lester Bricks, superintendent of the dead letter and dead parcel post office, reached for a DDT spray. He soon had killed most of the loose bees. He's had the spray on hand since a similar experience last year.

Most of the bees remained in the case with the queen.

Tito Home, Plans New Conference

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 27 (AP)—President Tito came home in triumph from his Moscow trip today. His government immediately announced that he plans a conference with Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and Indian Prime Minister Nehru next month.

Tito reached the frontier railroad station of Kikinda after 25 days in the Soviet Union and Romania. He told 60,000 cheering Yugoslavs that Russia is "ready to struggle for peace together with all progressive peoples."

What had happened in the past was now forgotten and the people of the Communist countries he visited "were very happy we had come," Tito said.

Yugopress, semiofficial news agency, said the Tito-Nasser-Nehru meeting would be on Brioni, Tito's summer resort island in the Adriatic.

Agreement Averts Tenn. Demo Battle

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 27 (AP)—Tennessee Democrats headed off a knockdown family row today with an agreement between Gov. Frank Clement and presidential hopeful Sen. Estes Kefauver to send an uninstructed delegation to the party's national convention.

The agreement, reached on the eve of the party's state convention here, provides that Tennessee's 32 votes in the national conclave at Chicago in August be left free to support "any Tennessean who has an opportunity to be nominated" president or vice president.

Kefauver, a candidate for the presidential nomination, said he regards the agreement as a "fair solution" to the dispute which had threatened to rip the party apart in the senator's own home state.

U.S. And Canada Reach Atom Pact Agreement

OTTAWA, June 27 (AP)—Canada and the United States have reached agreement on a new atomic pact under which this country will receive information on the design of atomic power plants for military purposes, it was learned today.

D.C. Evacuation Plan Is Termed 'Sheer Suicide'

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—A Maryland Civil Defense official protested today that plans for the evacuation of Washington in event of atomic attack are "sheer suicide."

"The entire evacuation scheme is ridiculous," Robert Hal Silvers, Civil Defense Director for Prince Georges County in nearby Maryland, asserted before the House Military Operations subcommittee.

It is a suicidal plan, he said, because:

1. "The present bottlenecks which exist would strangle traffic. Traffic will back all the way up into D.C. and the passengers in panic will abandon vehicles and remain unprotected."

2. "No adequate reception areas exist now and apparently will not exist for some time."

3. "... The time it takes for a submarine to surface off the Atlantic coast and launch a guided missile would be a great deal less than the one, two or three hour period that has been bandied about."

ADA Raps Senators For High Court Attack

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The head of Americans for Democratic Action said today it was "arrant nonsense" for Sens. Eastland (D-Miss) and McCarthy (R-Wis) to say the Supreme Court has handed down "one pro-Communist decision after another."

Joseph L. Rauh Jr. told Eastland to his face the attacks of the two senators yesterday evidenced a continuing drive to discredit the court.

"That's where you are wrong," Eastland broke in. "The court has discredited itself."

Rauh, national chairman of the ADA, which described itself as an anti-Communist political organization dedicated to liberal principles, testified at a Senate Internal Security subcommittee hearing presided over by Eastland. Rauh said attacks on the Supreme Court have reached a "violent pitch" because of its defense of individual rights.

Hearing Is Recessed As Paper Runs Out

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP) — When there's no more paper to record a congressional hearing, what happens?

The hearing ends.

It happened today to the House Antitrust subcommittee. After about three hours of testimony on the television industry, the girl operating the stenographic machine interrupted:

"I'm sorry, Mr. Chairman, but I'm out of paper."

Chairman Celler (D-NY) decided, "This is as good a time as any to recess until tomorrow."

Negro Vote Seen Deciding Who Runs Congress

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27 (AP)—American Negro leaders were told today "it is within our hands to determine whether there will be a Democratic or Republican 85th Congress."

And tonight they were urged to add "passive resistance" to their arsenal of weapons to attain full civil rights.

The prediction that the Negro vote could determine the complexion of Congress came from Clarence Mitchell, key political strategist of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

He told a Midwestern work shop of the NAACP's 47th convention that the Negro vote could be decisive in 60 congressional districts and 16 senatorial races. Mitchell said "civil rights will be the most important issue in determining who controls the 85th Congress."

Roy Reuther, one of the United Auto Workers' three Reuther brothers, added that civil rights advocates could get action from the current Congress through a coalition of NAACP, unions and churches calling on politicians state by state before the election.

Passive resistance was urged by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, a leader of the six-month-old bus boycott in Montgomery, Ala., in a speech prepared for delivery at a convention mass meeting tonight.

He said the problem of lifting desegregation rulings "from the dusty files of unimplemented court decisions and implementing them "will be carried out mainly by the Negro's refusal to cooperate with segregation."

Dr. King described the passive resistance adopted in Montgomery's bus strike as "a new and creative approach to the crisis in race relations."

Multiple Crash Fatal To Three

SPARKILL, N. Y., June 27 (AP)—Death struck through three generations of a Baltimore family today when their car was smashed in a mishap involving two trucks.

Three other members of the family and the driver of a truck were taken to a hospital with critical injuries.

The dead, tentatively identified through personal papers and officers' phone calls to Baltimore relatives, were listed as:

Mrs. Ida Wiedenhoeft, about 60; her daughter, Mrs. Hilda Scochin, 41, and Mrs. Scochin's son, Kenneth, 9.

Those injured were believed to be August Wiedenhoeft, 64, husband of Mrs. Wiedenhoeft; Nicholas Scochin, 46, husband of Mrs. Scochin, and Katherine Scochin, 3, the Scochins' daughter.

Police identified the two truck drivers as John Newman, 50, of Willimantic, Conn., who was taken to Nyack Hospital with the other injured, and Raymond Penfold Jr., 28, of Pittston, Me. Penfold was reported unhurt.

The mishap occurred about 9 a.m. on a bridge spanning Sparkill Creek on New York State's Route 9W. The site is in Rockland County, about 18 miles west of the George Washington Bridge in New York City.

Police said the two trucks sideswiped each other. The cab of the one driven by Newman went through a guard rail and plunged 200 feet down a ravine.

Its big tank trailer, loaded with lubricating oil, crashed into the Baltimore family's car, caromed off the bridge, officers said.

Army Acts To Curb Troublemaking GIs In Germany

HEIDELBERG, Germany, June 27 (AP)—The U.S. Army in Europe announced today a drastic crackdown on troublemaking GIs. The action was ordered by its commander in chief Gen. H. I. Hodes, as German protests against misbehaving Allied soldiers reached a new pitch.

In a statement issued by his headquarters here, Hodes assured the Germans that "prompt and effective corrective action" has been taken wherever necessary to remedy the situation. But he denied there had been an increase in GI misbehaving.

"Commanders thoroughly understand that misbehavior on the part of troops and particularly criminal acts are not tolerated in the American Army, and that such conduct is as abhorrent to Americans as it is to our German neighbors," Hodes said.

"The Army is not a haven for bad actors or criminals, nor does it afford these offenders the protection of anonymity. Commanders are pursuing vigorously their investigations into these situations and are taking prompt remedial action."

OTTAWA, June 27 (AP)—Canada and the United States have reached agreement on a new atomic pact under which this country will receive information on the design of atomic power plants for military purposes, it was learned today.

D.C. Evacuation Plan Is Termed 'Sheer Suicide'

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—A Maryland Civil Defense official protested today that plans for the evacuation of Washington in event of atomic attack are "sheer suicide."

"The entire evacuation scheme is ridiculous," Robert Hal Silvers, Civil Defense Director for Prince Georges County in nearby Maryland, asserted before the House Military Operations subcommittee.

It is a suicidal plan, he said, because:

1. "The present bottlenecks which exist would strangle traffic. Traffic will back all the way up into D.C. and the passengers in panic will abandon vehicles and remain unprotected."

2. "No adequate reception areas exist now and apparently will not exist for some time."

3. "... The time it takes for a submarine to surface off the Atlantic coast and launch a guided missile would be a great deal less than the one, two or three hour period that has been bandied about."

ADA Raps Senators For High Court Attack

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The head of Americans for Democratic Action said today it was "arrant nonsense" for Sens. Eastland (D-Miss) and McCarthy (R-Wis) to say the Supreme Court has handed down "one pro-Communist decision after another."

Joseph L. Rauh Jr. told Eastland to his face the attacks of the two senators yesterday evidenced a continuing drive to discredit the court.

"That's where you are wrong," Eastland broke in. "The court has discredited itself."

Rauh, national chairman of the ADA, which described itself as an anti-Communist political organization dedicated to liberal principles, testified at a Senate Internal Security subcommittee hearing presided over by Eastland. Rauh said attacks on the Supreme Court have reached a "violent pitch" because of its defense of individual rights.

Hearing Is Recessed As Paper Runs Out

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—When there's no more paper to record a congressional hearing, what happens?

The hearing ends.

It happened today to the House Antitrust subcommittee. After about three hours of testimony on the television industry, the girl operating the stenographic machine interrupted:

"I'm sorry, Mr. Chairman, but I'm out of paper."

Chairman Celler (D-NY) decided, "This is as good a time as any to recess until tomorrow."

Negro Vote Seen Deciding Who Runs Congress

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27 (AP)—American Negro leaders were told today "it is within our hands to determine whether there will be a Democratic or Republican 85th Congress."

And tonight they were urged to add "passive resistance" to their arsenal of weapons to attain full civil rights.

The prediction that the Negro vote could determine the complexion of Congress came from Clarence Mitchell, key political strategist of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

He told a Midwestern work shop of the NAACP's 47th convention that the Negro vote could be decisive in 60 congressional districts and 16 senatorial races. Mitchell said "civil rights will be the most important issue in determining who controls the 85th Congress."

Roy Reuther, one of the United Auto Workers' three Reuther brothers, added that civil rights advocates could get action from the current Congress through a coalition of NAACP, unions and churches calling on politicians state by state before the election.

Passive resistance was urged by the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, a leader of the six-month-old bus boycott in Montgomery, Ala., in a speech prepared for delivery at a convention mass meeting tonight.

He said the problem of lifting desegregation rulings "from the dusty files of unimplemented court decisions and implementing them "will be carried out mainly by the Negro's refusal to cooperate with segregation."

Dr. King described the passive resistance adopted in Montgomery's bus strike as "a new and creative approach to the crisis in race relations."

Multiple Crash Fatal To Three

SPARKILL, N. Y., June 27 (AP)—Death struck through three generations of a Baltimore family today when their car was smashed in a mishap involving two trucks.

Three other members of the family and the driver of a truck were taken to a hospital with critical injuries.

The dead, tentatively identified through personal papers and officers' phone calls to Baltimore relatives, were listed as:

Mrs. Ida Wiedenhoeft, about 60; her daughter, Mrs. Hilda Scochin, 41, and Mrs. Scochin's son, Kenneth, 9.

Those injured were believed to be August Wiedenhoeft, 64, husband of Mrs. Wiedenhoeft; Nicholas Scochin, 46, husband of Mrs. Scochin, and Katherine Scochin, 3, the Scochins' daughter.

Police identified the two truck drivers as John Newman, 50, of Willimantic, Conn., who was taken to Nyack Hospital with the other injured, and Raymond Penfold Jr., 28, of Pittston, Me. Penfold was reported unhurt.

The mishap occurred about 9 a.m. on a bridge spanning Sparkill Creek on New York State's Route 9W. The site is in Rockland County, about 18 miles west of the George Washington Bridge in New York City.

Police said the two trucks sideswiped each other. The cab of the one driven by Newman went through a guard rail and plunged 200 feet down a ravine.

Its big tank trailer, loaded with lubricating oil, crashed into the Baltimore family's car, caromed off the bridge, officers said.

Army Acts To Curb Troublemaking GIs In Germany

HEIDELBERG, Germany, June 27 (AP)—The U.S. Army in Europe announced today a drastic crackdown on troublemaking GIs. The action was ordered by its commander in chief Gen. H. I. Hodes, as German protests against misbehaving Allied soldiers reached a new pitch.

In a statement issued by his headquarters here, Hodes assured the Germans that "prompt and effective corrective action" has been taken wherever necessary to remedy the situation. But he denied there had been an increase in GI misbehaving.

"Commanders thoroughly understand that misbehavior on the part of troops and particularly criminal acts are not tolerated in the American Army, and that such conduct is as abhorrent to Americans as it is to our German neighbors," Hodes said.

"The Army is not a haven for bad actors or criminals, nor does it afford these offenders the protection of anonymity. Commanders are pursuing vigorously their investigations into these situations and are taking prompt remedial action."

County Assessors Must Help Correct 'Inequitable Situation,' Allen Declares

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 27 — Joseph Allen, state tax commission chairman, said today that the county assessors must help correct "admistratively the inequitable situation in assessments" or a Legislative criticism will be justified.

Allen said he considered unfair a Legislative Council committee's report that the commission had failed to do all it can about equalizing property assessments in the state.

But he added, in a talk to assessing officers attending a school at the University of Maryland, "Unless we, the commission and you, take the necessary steps to correct administratively the inequitable situation in assessments, the committee's charge will be justified."

He also warned them about the assessments on inventories of business firms.

"It is the commission's views," Allen said, "that inventories are being assessed by county assessors and supervisors at very much below their value and required by law, and that situation will have to be corrected.

"To say the least, a certain lexity has grown up in the filing of these returns, as well as in the making of the assessments thereon, and I am taking this opportunity to advise you that we will expect a sharp and definite change and tightening up."

While Allen expressed approval of the principle of the equalization fund by which state aid for schools is distributed, he found fault with the system for state health grants.

Both are related to property assessments and taxes.

Up until last year, Allen continued, the state had no formula for its aid to health. Then it adopted one based on allocations according to certain percentage ratios of assessments to sales.

"This was not a satisfactory method to be used for the allocation of funds," said Allen.

He recalled he had recommended last year to a Legislative committee his solution for ending the problem of whether property should be assessed at its full cash value or a percentage.

This is the crux of a situation which has plagued the Legislature in recent years. While the state law dictates assessment at full cash value, no county or Baltimore City ever has. A survey found the percentages ranged from a low of 25 per cent to a maximum of 60 per cent.

The low assessing counties receive a larger share of state funds as a result.

Allen recommended that property be assessed at full cash value for the purposes of state taxation and aid while permitting a county to use any percentage it wished for its own taxing.

Allen said the Legislative Council rejected the idea and kept the responsibility for establishing full cash value on the Tax Commission, the supervisors and assessors.

"The principle of the equalization fund," Allen said, "is a sound one in that it adopts as its major premise that no child shall be handicapped in his education because he happens to live in a poorer county.

"It was never intended, however, that any county should fail to participate to the fullest extent that the full value of is assessable base would oblige it to do."

Family Of Man Slain By Officer Asks $500,000

TOWSON, Md., June 27 (AP)—The widow and four children of a man shot and killed by a policeman sued today for half a million dollars.

The Circuit Court suit by the family of the late Harold E. Jennelle named as defendants Patrolman Howard Rappold and the Baltimore County Commission.

It claims Rappold "'wrongfully and without just cause or provocation" shot Jennelle, 29-year-old steelworker, on May 27.

Rappold's story of the shooting was told to the Grand Jury, which took no action. Police Chief Hamilton R. Atkinson ruled that his conduct was unbecoming an officer and took away two weeks of vacation for Rappold.

Rappold said he fired three times at two men after a three-mile automobile chase. He said the chase started when the men drove off as he approached to question them. At the time, Rappold was guarding a used car lot where several acts of vandalism had been reported.

He said the men abandoned the car and took to a woods. Jennelle was felled by two wounds and died. The other man has never been found or identified.

Burlesque Girls Fined $20 Each

BALTIMORE, June 27 (AP) — Magistrate Meyer Cardin went the limit today in fining three burlesque dancing girls and the manager of the Gayety Theater $20 each for putting on an indecent show.

Cardin suggested the maximum fine be raised to "$100 or more."

He imposed the present maximum on Donna Barber, Mrs. Levodis Levin, Mrs. Jane Rich and John Fitzmaurice.

After a police raid Sunday, they were charged along with Morris N. Shoib, treasurer of the company controlling the theater, with putting on an indecent performance and with maintaining a disorderly house.

The disorderly house charges against all five were dismissed and Shoib also was freed on the other.

Truth Helps Keep Youth Out Of Jail

BALTIMORE, June 27 (AP) — The truth helped keep one youth out of jail today while his buddy went in for lying.

Donald Sapp, 18, and Paul Salisbury, 25, formerly of Fayette County, Pa., were in Youth Court for stealing a 10-year-old car.

Judge James K. Cullen wanted to know the motive.

"We just needed two tires and didn't have the money to pay for them," spoke up Sapp. "The tires on that old car fit ours, so we just took them."

He was sentenced to 18 months, but Judge Cullen suspended it and put him on probation.

Salisbury was in for the same leniency. But he told the judge and the state's attorney he had no record for past offenses. They found out he is on parole from Pennsylvania.

So he was sentenced to 18 months and it wasn't suspended.

Fare Increase Sought By B. And A. Railroad

BALTIMORE, June 27 (AP) — A bus fare increase on its Brooklyn operations was asked today by the Baltimore and Annapolis Railroad.

The bus operators asked the Public Service Commission for permission to raise the fares on July 30.

The present fares now are 10 cents for adults and five for children.

The company proposes a 10-ticket fare figuring 12½ cents for adults and 7½ for children or a straight fare of 15 for adults and 10 for children.

Drownings In State Waters Show Rise

BALTIMORE, June 27 (AP) — Drownings in Maryland waters this year are more numerous than in the past two, city and state health departments reported today.

They have recorded 60 drownings since Jan. 1. Last year, they counted 47 in the first six months and 58 in 1954.

Only 3,292,881 Americans were counted in the first decennial census of the United States in 1790.

Donovan Book Says Ike Considered Third Party

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—A book about the Eisenhower administration which has drawn senatorial attention reports the President once seriously toyed with the idea of forming a third party.

Vexed at what "powerful right wing" Republicans were doing to his program in 1953, Eisenhower "even went so far as to try to think up a name" for the new party, said White House correspondent Robert J. Donovan of the New York Herald Tribune.

The name never was hit upon, but from the third party discussion, said Donovan, came such phrases as "progressive moderates" and "dynamic conservatism" to describe Eisenhower's idea of what the Republican party should be.

Aware of the historic fate of "splinter" groups, Donovan added, the President gave up the idea, concluding "his best hope of attaining his goals was to persevere in trying to give the Republican party a new viewpoint and a new complexion."

Donovan's book, "Eisenhower—the Inside Story," is to be published shortly. "Eisenhower in the White House," a 24-part serialization based on the book, has appeared in the Herald Tribune.

The serialized version covered a wide range of domestic and foreign policy matters, from atoms to Indochina, and from the Army-McCarthy hearings to Eisenhower's decision to seek re-election.

There were numerous references to what transpired at Cabinet sessions and other meetings of presidential advisers.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) has charged that Donovan got copies of documents denied even to Congress.

Reporting on the third party idea, Donovan quoted Eisenhower as telling GOP National Chairman Hall at a May 8, 1953 Cabinet meeting, that he was tired of having his administration "kicked in the shins" by Congress.

At a May 22 Cabinet session Secretary of Defense Wilson was quoted as saying he wished more Republicans would recognize they were no longer members of an opposition party.

"Brother, I heartily agree," the President reportedly replied.

Although the 1954 election returns disappointed the President, "the Democratic victory did yield him one political advantage," Donovan said. "It submerged the Republican right wing . . . Sen. McCarthy, for example, lost the chairmanship of the Permanent Investigations subcommittee. . ."

According to Donovan, the five weeks of the Army - McCarthy hearings, the televised investigation of allegations that members of McCarthy's staff tried to exert pressure on the Army, were for Eisenhower "a period of acute embarrassment, anger, impatience and frustration."

The author gave this account of what preceded Eisenhower's announcement that he would seek re-election:

On the night of Jan. 13 last, the President sat at the head of "an intimate circle of friends" in the White House's second floor oval study, dubbed the Trophy room.

Hall, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, the President's brother, were among those present at the secret dinner meeting.

Dinner over, each person presented Eisenhower his views as to whether, 111 days after his heart attack, he should decide to run again.

"His place in the world was unique, he was told. No other person could work so effectively for peace as he—but only from the White House, not from retirement. He had made great strides toward unifying the American people and the Republican party, but his goal had not yet been fully reached. Only Eisenhower was sure of carrying the Republicans to victory. . ."

"Dr. Eisenhower summed up the pros and cons . . . from that night on he (the President) gravitated steadily toward his announcement Feb. 29 that he would run again. . . once he had recovered fully, the heart attack no longer was a factor in his decision."

Everyone at the meeting had spoken in favor of Eisenhower's seeking a second term.

100-Year-Old Man Dies At Funkstown

HAGERSTOWN, June 27 (AP) — Unable to follow his own admonition, "Don't do today what you can put off until tomorrow," Samuel Henry Whitlock died lastnight at the age of 100.

Death came at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Luther R. Iseminger of nearby Funkstown, where Whitlock lived six months of the year. He spent the rest of the year at the home of another daughter, Mrs. H. A. Osborne of (8½ Street, S.E.) Richmond, Va.

Whitlock, a native of Floyd County, Va., often recalled when Confederate troops looted his home during the Civil War when he was a small boy.

A carpenter and machinist in his working days, Whitlock had been in retirement for many years. He broke three ribs in a fall in Richmond last year but recuperated. He would have been 101 next October 25.

Surviving in addition to his two daughters is a son, Claude Whitlock, of Hyattsville.

Probe Of Utility Firms' A-Power Ad Under Way

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee has ordered an investigation of a nationwide newspaper advertising campaign which members claimed misrepresented the status of U. S. development of peacetime atomic power.

A committee spokesman said the committee issued a subpoena for officials of the N. W. Ayer & Sons, Inc., advertising agency, Philadelphia, which prepared full page advertisments published in about 50 papers several weeks ago.

The advertisments were sponsored by a group of more than 100 private utility companies.

The committee's action behind closed doors was taken by a split vote reported as about 30-10.

The advertisment reportedly was an answer to claims of members of Congress that the United States was lagging in development of peacetime atomic power. The ad claimed the United States could maintain its lead in this field with the aid of private power companies.

Some committee members have insisted that the government start building big reactors for atomic power development instead of waiting for private enterprise.

At the time the advertisement was published, an Appropriations subcommittee was conducting hearings on a request of the Atomic Energy Commission for additional money.

A committee source said some of the statements in the advertisement were "false and misleading" and were not supported by testimony given the committee by Atomic Energy Commission witnesses.

Among other things, the advertisements said the United States has built 55 nuclear reactors compared with 7 in Great Britain, 6 in Russia and 10 in all other nations, with 35 others being planned or built by this country compared with 23 in Great Britain, 11 in Russia and 14 in other countries.

These six men signed both the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence—James Wilson, Benjamin Franklin, Robert Morris, Roger Sherman, George Clymen and George Read.

Broadway Plans Cohan Monument

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Broadway is giving its regards—with a monument—to George M. Cohan, the late minstrel who helped make it famous in song.

A committee of prominent showmen, headed by Oscar Hammerstein II, said today a $150,000 memorial will be erected in the center of the Great White Way at 46th St. facing Times Square.

Cohan, who during his theatrical career was everything from actor to writer to producer, died Nov. 5, 1952.

Huge Airport Hangar Planned At Baltimore

BALTIMORE, June 27 (AP) — A Pennsylvania firm has been given the job of building a hangar at Friendship International Airport which will more than double the field's airplane storage capacity.

The contract was awarded Luria Engineering Company of Bethlehem, Pa. The steel-framed hangar and attached maintenance shop will be fabricated at the Luria plant in Bethlehem and shipped to the site for erection during August.

The 200-by-300 foot hangar will have a total area of 65,000 square feet. Luria also will erect an addition to the present hangar, which has a total area of 42,000 square feet.

Ohio River Shipping Tonnage Jumps 30%

CINCINNATI, June 27 (AP)—A 16½ million ton, 30 per cent increase in Ohio River shipping tonnage for the calendar year 1955 over 1954 was reported today by Col. J. L. Person, Ohio River Division Army engineer.

The 1955 figure was 71,461,170 tons against 55,076,677 in 1954 and represented only tonnage moved on the 981 miles of the river itself.

Col. Person said the tonnage moved in 1955 was about 50 per cent more than the announced ultimate capacity of the St. Lawrence Seaway, now under construction.

Ton mileage—a figure representing the movement of one ton of freight over one mile of river—also rose 30 per cent from 11,556,889,197 in 1954 to 14,901,321,441.

Coal and coke barge movements made the biggest jump, in part because of start of operations during the year in the world's two largest privately operated steam electric power plants at Madison, Ind., and near Gallipolis, Ohio.

Coal and coke tonnage reached 37,962,937, an increase of almost 12 million tons over 1954 when 26,053,205 tons moved on the Ohio.

Winning Pigeon Homes 2d Day

The winning pigeon in the ninth and final race of the old bird schedule of the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club did not finish the 600-mile flight from St. Louis, Mo., until the second day.

Winner was John Junior, from the Town View Loft of Galen Beeman, whose speed was 743.89 yards per minute.

The birds had a tough time, encountering storms en route. Three other birds returned home on the third day. Thirty-two birds competed in the race.

Those arriving on the third day were Muscle Bound, also from the Town View Loft, 500.47 yards per minute; Jazz Bow from Excello Loft of M. M. Green, 469.74 yards, and Beacer Tail from the MacArthur Loft of C. A. Smith, 437.57 yards.

A series of eight races in the young bird schedule will start the last Sunday in August.

Injunction Decree Signed In Garrett County Case

Chief Judge George Henderson has signed a decree for an injunction against Harvey D. Swartzentruber and Aubrey C. Brenneman, members of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, in a case brought by Irvin Roth, the third commissioner, in connection with transactions of the two defendants with the county.

The suit brought by Roth against the two other members of the board asked the court to enjoin them from making with the commissioners any contract or agreement in which they might be interested, either directly or indirectly.

The court also ruled that the contract of Aubrey C. Brenneman, as a partner in the John J. Brenneman Company, for drilling holes for blasting at the county quarry is void and also that Brenneman is enjoined from taking part in any discussions as to any money due under the contract for work performed.

The Swartzentruber transactions occurred when the roads engineer, William W. DeWitt, on two occasions purchased items for the Road Board from "Hub's Harness Shop" in Oakland. This is the trade name of the business owned by Swartzentruber. The first purchase was a brief case for $16.14 and the second was when tarpaulins were bought in an emergency to cover cement during a storm. The tarpaulins cost $48.96.

"There is nothing to indicate that Swartzentruber had sought regularly to do business with the county. It is clear these were isolated transactions done openly and without any intention of evading the law. Nevertheless, the law is clear that such transaction is not permitted," Judge Henderson declared.

In the Brenneman case the defendant in his answer to the suit by Roth denied he had any direct interest or that he is co-owner of the drilling and plumbing business known as A. C. Brenneman and Son.

The answer related that John J. Brenneman, the son, was taken into the partnership in January 1947 and that in June 1954, Aubrey Brenneman transferred all his interest in the business to his son. It was also pointed out in the answer that bids went out for drilling of 1,500 feet of drill holes for blasting and the only bid submitted was that of John J. Brenneman at $2.49 per foot.

It also stated that later it was discovered more drilling was necessary and the Road Board engaged the same John J. Brenneman to do the work at $2 per foot.

Judge Henderson said that the evidence was conclusive that the real contractor for the drilling was the firm of A. C. Brenneman and Son and that Aubrey C. Brenneman is still a partner and directly interested in the partnership.

It may be that A. C. Brenneman takes nothing in the way of "profits" from the firm, but he still owns a half interest and he will until he is paid the full amount owed him by his son, the jurist declared.

Judge Henderson then quoted the law which forbids county commissioners to do business in any way with the county.

It is true that the plaintiff, Roth, approved the contract with John J. Brenneman for the drilling of 1,500 feet of holes at $2.47 per foot. However, Judge Henderson ruled, it is apparent that the true facts as to Aubrey C. Brenneman's interest in the drilling contract were not revealed to the other two commissioners at the time. Even as late as April 1956, when the answer in this case was filed, Aubrey C. Brenneman was claiming he had no interest in this drilling operation, the court pointed out.

"It is this apparent concealment of interest which distinguishes the Swartzentruber and Brenneman cases. There was none in connection with the purchases from 'Hub's Harness Shop'," Judge Henderson declared.

"And at this stage I wish to point out that neither side produced evidence to show under what circumstances and by whom 'John J. Brenneman' was authorized to continue drilling after the original 1,500 feet had been drilled. We know the drilling continued and at a lower price per foot, but no official records were introduced to show the exact circumstances," Judge Henderson opined.

"These may be very material during future proceedings to determine what amount is due 'John J. Brenneman' for drilling work already done at the quarry and not yet paid for. Aubrey C. Brenneman naturally should take no part in any action the commissioners may take in deciding what should be done concerning this. And any lawyers involved in such negotiations should be careful about conflicting interests," Judge Henderson ruled.

Representing Roth in the Garrett County Circuit Court action was Horace P. Whitworth Jr., of Westernport, while the two defendants were represented by Walter Dawson and W. Dwight Stover, both of Oakland, and William A. Gunter, this city.

Divorce rate in small towns is said to be only about one-half that in the large cities.

Driver Fined After 'Stunt'

A local motorist was fined $25 Tuesday night in Keyser on a charge of failing to keep his automobile under control after he pulled a "hell-diver" stunt in an attempt to keep from striking pedestrians and other vehicles.

Clarence E. Sims, 21, of 528 North Mechanic Street, was given a hearing before Keyser City Court Judge Carl F. Theiss Jr., after he ran his automobile up the ramp of an automobile carrier which was unloading new cars.

Sims, police said, was descending the grade on the West Virginia side of the Keyser-McCoole interstate bridge when he saw he would be unable to avoid striking other vehicles or pedestrians at a a North Mineral Street intersection. Sims guided his vehicle up the ramp of the auto carrier and rammed into one of the vehicles about to be unloaded. Little damage was reported, police attributing it to the grade of the ramp which lessened the speed at which Sims' car was traveling.

Gary Bennett, 29, of Temperance, Mich., who was working on the carrier, was admitted overnight to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, for X-rays and observation after being squeezed between two vehicles on the carrier rig. He was released yesterday.

To Hold Talent Show

The talent show which was rained out Tuesday at Mapleside Playground has been rescheduled for this evening at 7:30, according to Ruth Schade, playlot director. A film will be shown following the program.

Three Killed In Crash On Pa. Turnpike

Three residents of Philadelphia died instantly Tuesday following a one-car accident on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, one-tenth of a mile east of Bedford.

Pennsylvania Turnpike Police at Bedford, who investigated, said the dead were Richard Powell, 24; his wife, Mrs. Nancy Powell, 19, and Clifford B. Brown, 24. They all resided on Samson Street in Philadelphia.

State Police said Mrs. Powell was driving a late model automobile westbound when she lost control of the vehicle and struck a concrete bridge abutment.

The authorities said Mrs. Powell's auto skidded on the rain-slickened highway and struck a guard rail before running head-on into the abutment.

After the vehicle struck the abutment it then plunged 18 feet down an embankment, coming to rest against a utility pole support.

Both Mrs. Powell and Brown were thrown from the auto as it was traveling down the embankment.

Band To Hold Concert Tonight

The Cumberland Municipal Concert Band will present a program for patients at the Allegany County Infirmary tonight at 7:30.

The band will be under the co-direction of Frank R. Munson and Roy Nutter, music instructors of Beall High and Fort Hill respectively.

Local Man Uninjured In Crash Near City

Franklin Marvin Young, 313 Holland Street, escaped injury yesterday when his automobile crashed on the Bedford Road, two miles from Cumberland.

State Trooper Joseph Stakem, who investigated, said Young apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed and failed to make a curve. The vehicle tore down a section of fence, and extensive property damage was caused, Trooper Stakem said.

Injunction Decree Signed In Garrett County Case

Chief Judge George Henderson has signed a decree for an injunction against Harvey D. Swartzentruber and Aubrey C. Brenneman, members of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, in a case brought by Irvin Roth, the third commissioner, in connection with transactions of the two defendants with the county.

The suit brought by Roth against the two other members of the board asked the court to enjoin them from making with the commissioners any contract or agreement in which they might be interested, either directly or indirectly.

The court also ruled that the contract of Aubrey C. Brenneman, as a partner in the John J. Brenneman Company, for drilling holes for blasting at the county quarry is void and also that Brenneman is enjoined from taking part in any discussions as to any money due under the contract for work performed.

The Swartzentruber transactions occurred when the roads engineer, William W. DeWitt, on two occasions purchased items for the Road Board from "Hub's Harness Shop" in Oakland. This is the trade name of the business owned by Swartzentruber. The first purchase was a brief case for $16.14 and the second was when tarpaulins were bought in an emergency to cover cement during a storm. The tarpaulins cost $48.96.

"There is nothing to indicate that Swartzentruber had sought regularly to do business with the county. It is clear these were isolated transactions done openly and without any intention of evading the law. Nevertheless, the law is clear that such transaction is not permitted," Judge Henderson declared.

In the Brenneman case the defendant in his answer to the suit by Roth denied he had any direct interest or that he is co-owner of the drilling and plumbing business known as A. C. Brenneman and Son.

The answer related that John J. Brenneman, the son, was taken into the partnership in January 1947 and that in June 1954, Aubrey Brenneman transferred all his interest in the business to his son. It was also pointed out in the answer that bids went out for drilling of 1,500 feet of drill holes for blasting and the only bid submitted was that of John J. Brenneman at $2.49 per foot.

It also stated that later it was discovered more drilling was necessary and the Road Board engaged the same John J. Brenneman to do the work at $2 per foot.

Judge Henderson said that the evidence was conclusive that the real contractor for the drilling was the firm of A. C. Brenneman and Son and that Aubrey C. Brenneman is still a partner and directly interested in the partnership.

It may be that A. C. Brenneman takes nothing in the way of "profits" from the firm, but he still owns a half interest and he will until he is paid the full amount owed him by his son, the jurist declared.

Judge Henderson then quoted the law which forbids county commissioners to do business in any way with the county.

It is true that the plaintiff, Roth, approved the contract with John J. Brenneman for the drilling of 1,500 feet of holes at $2.47 per foot. However, Judge Henderson ruled, it is apparent that the true facts as to Aubrey C. Brenneman's interest in the drilling contract were not revealed to the other two commissioners at the time. Even as late as April 1956, when the answer in this case was filed, Aubrey C. Brenneman was claiming he had no interest in this drilling operation, the court pointed out.

"It is this apparent concealment of interest which distinguishes the Swartzentruber and Brenneman cases. There was none in connection with the purchases from 'Hub's Harness Shop'," Judge Henderson declared.

"And at this stage I wish to point out that neither side produced evidence to show under what circumstances and by whom 'John J. Brenneman' was authorized to continue drilling after the original 1,500 feet had been drilled. We know the drilling continued and at a lower price per foot, but no official records were introduced to show the exact circumstances," Judge Henderson opined.

"These may be very material during future proceedings to determine what amount is due 'John J. Brenneman' for drilling work already done at the quarry and not yet paid for. Aubrey C. Brenneman naturally should take no part in any action the commissioners may take in deciding what should be done concerning this. And any lawyers involved in such negotiations should be careful about conflicting interests," Judge Henderson ruled.

Representing Roth in the Garrett County Circuit Court action was Horace P. Whitworth Jr., of Westernport, while the two defendants were represented by Walter Dawson and W. Dwight Stover, both of Oakland, and William A. Gunter, this city.

Divorce rate in small towns is said to be only about one-half that in the large cities.

Driver Fined After 'Stunt'

A local motorist was fined $25 Tuesday night in Keyser on a charge of failing to keep his automobile under control after he pulled a "hell-diver" stunt in an attempt to keep from striking pedestrians and other vehicles.

Clarence E. Sims, 21, of 528 North Mechanic Street, was given a hearing before Keyser City Court Judge Carl F. Theiss Jr., after he ran his automobile up the ramp of an automobile carrier which was unloading new cars.

Sims, police said, was descending the grade on the West Virginia side of the Keyser-McCoole interstate bridge when he saw he would be unable to avoid striking other vehicles or pedestrians at a a North Mineral Street intersection. Sims guided his vehicle up the ramp of the auto carrier and rammed into one of the vehicles about to be unloaded. Little damage was reported, police attributing it to the grade of the ramp which lessened the speed at which Sims' car was traveling.

Gary Bennett, 29, of Temperance, Mich., who was working on the carrier, was admitted overnight to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, for X-rays and observation after being squeezed between two vehicles on the carrier rig. He was released yesterday.

A Taste Of Freedom Creates A Thirst

What does it feel like to live behind the iron curtain? Americans who have been there see the surface manifestations of strange undercurrents. And that is still true under the "new look."

A correspondent visiting Cluj, Romania, the other day, found at least 100 people crowding to admire his American automobile—a fairly common-place car on American streets, but an impressive sight in Cluj. Even more impressive, he soon realized, was the chance to see and talk to a flesh-and-blood American.

"Do you know what it means to us to see you here?" one young man asked him. "It is like an electric shock."

The feeling of the people seemed to be that the first American they had seen lately was like the first robin, a harbinger of better weather ahead. "A year ago," one of them said, "I would not have dared to speak to you. Who knows what will come to pass in another year?"

In an open-air restaurant, the reporter's party continued to attract attention. Romanians talked to them—with many guarded looks to see who was listening. The Romanians proceeded to drop scraps of information, from which the correspondent pieced together a picture of depression and helplessness.

There formerly was plenty of caviar in Romania. Now the stores offer a roe called "Manchurian caviar"—coals to Newcastle! But Communist officials told the correspondent he must have been seeking out malcontents; most of the people were satisfied. As for this talk about freedom—nonsense; "Doesn't their talking to you show they are free?"!

But a group of college students in Prague found out how much this freedom amounts to. Some of them dared to make demands for a factual press, giving both sides; for an end to the proscription of non-Communist foreign literature; for real debates in Parliament; for an end to kowtowing to Moscow.

They were warned that liberty is not license—that they were out of line when they made "tendentious demands in provocative resolutions" criticising their Communist rulers. They were told to stop abusing the word freedom: "When we hear this word we grow suspicious. It begins with a demand for freedom and ends with freedom for capitalism."

Isn't that just like people? Give them a taste of freedom and they want a lot of it! In Cluj and in Prague, Communist officials will eventually realize that a taste of freedom is too much, or it is not enough. What will they do then?

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Sobell Case

The efforts that are being made to have Morton Sobell released remind me of an episode during the first year of the Russian Revolution. Big Bill Haywood was in jail in the United States and a group of Bolsheviks had decided that the best way to get Haywood freed quickly would be to kidnap the American ambassador, David Frances, and then exchange prisoner for prisoner. It was Trotzky who foiled the plot. In the first place, he put a tank with machine guns in front of the embassy; then he told me and I told Francis.

It is certainly no crime for the friends of Morton Sobell to try to get him out of prison, provided they do it by due process of the law. Getting the aged Bertrand Russell or the existential Jean Paul Sartre to intervene is not due process. Their opinions may be interesting to their followers but cut no ice here.

Sobell's lawyers have appeared in court, before Judge Irving Kaufman, to plead that the verdict sentencing him to 30 years imprisonment be set aside on the ground that his constitutional rights had been violated. This contradicts the statement of his lawyer, E. H. Bloch, at the time of his trial. As I read Judge Kaufman's decision, no claim is made that Sobell is innocent of having conspired with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, and with Harry Gold, David Greenglass, Klaus Fuchs and others to steal the atom bomb from the Manhattan Project at Los Alamos.

In one form or another, the Rosenberg-Sobell cases have appeared before the United States Court of Appeals six times and before the United States Supreme Court six times and the conviction has remained undisturbed.

Judge Kaufman makes this important point which apparently neither Bertrand Russell nor Jean Paul Sartre, who have intervened, recognize:

"It is difficult to find a case in the history of American jurisprudence, or indeed in the judicial annals of any other country, where the defendants' convictions and contentions have received the attention of so many judges at so many levels of a judicial system, as well as that of the President of the United States on applications for executive clemency. Not a single legal recourse has been or will be denied to Sobell."

Sobell's lawyers aver that Sobell was kidnapped from Mexico by agents of the Mexican Secret Police "who were acting under the orders of the FBI, and that he was thus forcibly and illegally returned to the United States against his will . . ." Sobell's contention is that he would have returned willingly and that it was improper for the Mexican government to deport him and that actually such "kidnapping violated a treaty between the United States and Mexico." The Government of the United States denies the alleged kidnapping.

Sobell tells a harrowing tale of having been beaten by the Mexican police until he was unconscious. It is to be pointed out that Sobell did not claim the benefit of these facts until five days after his conviction. Judge Jerome Frank, who heard his first appeal, said:

"Sobell waived his right to challenge personal jurisdiction in this trial . . . (H)e made no move to bring to light the facts of his alleged illegal abduction. He preferred to take his chances on the verdict, withholding his trump card until the trial was over. The Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure allow no such tactic."

Sobell's lawyers produced no new evidence of his guiltlessness; they only claim that the original court in which the trial occurred lacked jurisdiction. To this Judge Kaufman replies:

". . . He seems to believe that by the mere device of changing attorneys and relabeling his claims, he may return to court time after time with the same basic argument . . ."

Despite The Torch, The Path Is Dark

Burning Of Contribution Lists Bears Looking Into

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Why were the records of the 1952 campaign contributions of both parties destroyed by order of the speaker of the House, Samuel Rayburn?

The question is being asked now because the Department of Justice has written to the speaker of the House and the vice president to obtain information concrning the records and apparently has gotten no satisfactory answer. It appears that the grand jury in St. Louis, Mo., the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service are all interested in the records of these campaign contributions in connection with possible prosecutions in some undisclosed cases.

Suddenly Removed

It now can be revealed that the destruction of the records came about in March 1955 when a staff of copyists for U. S. News & World Report went to the office of the clerk of the House of Representatives and, in the customary way, began compiling facts for a news story on the size of the contributions and the donors to both parties. In the midst of copying the records were suddenly removed and, when an explanation was sought, Ralph R. Roberts, cler' of the House, said that, according to the law, they didn't have to be kept longer than two years anyhow and that it was past the two-year mark.

No explanation was offered as to why the records were destroyed in the middle of the process of "public inspection" which is provided by law. Here is the memorandum made by a staff member of U. S. News & World Report on March 22, 1955, which was just a few days after the records had been removed from public inspection:

"Q. Mr. Roberts, in how many Congresses have you been clerk of the House?

"A. Three—the 81st, the 82nd, and this, the 84th.

"Q. Before this, what has been your practice about removal of the files containing the list of contributors to the political campaigns? How long did you keep them in the House file room before removing them?

"A. I'd have to refresh my memory before I'd answer that.

"Q. Did you order that the files containing lists of contributors to the 1952 presidential campaign fund be removed from the file room last week?

"A. I did.

Order Carried Out

"Q. Was that order carried out?

"A. I have been informed it was.

"Q. Could you tell us by whom?

"A. My representatives, my agents.

"Q. What was done with the reports after they were removed? Were they destroyed or merely stored somewhere else?

"A. Destroyed.

"Q. Destroyed how?

"A. I have been informed they were burned.

"Q. What prompted such an order at this time, instead of some other time?

"A. The two years had expired at the end of January (1955). It was my opinion the papers had served their usefulness.

"Q. What is the law regarding disposition of such files?

"A. That they shall be kept two years. The law that governs is the subsection of the Corrupt Practices Act which says that campaign papers shall be preserved by the clerk or secretary for a period of two years from the date of filing, shall constitute a part of the public records of his office, and shall be open to public inspection.

1946 Act Doesn't Apply

"Q. The Congressional Reorganization Act passed in 1946 has a section that applies to your handling of papers. That section says: 'The secretary of the Senate and clerk of the House of Representatives are authorized and directed acting jointly to obtain at the close of each Congress all of the non-current records of the Congress and of each committee thereof and transfer them to the National Archives for preservation subject to the orders of the Senate or the House, respectively'. Would not that Section 140 of the Reorganization Act have some bearing on campaign statements filed with you?

"A. No, campaign reports are filed under the Corrupt Practices Act, which merely says the reports shall be kept for two years.

"Q. Isn't it a fact that heretofore the campaign expenditure lists were not destroyed but were sent to the Archives for permanent filing?

"A. Only in one instance to my knowledge, and that was just committee reports. I do not understand that individual reports of candidates were so handled.

"Q. Before such files were sent to Archives in other years, were they not kept at the Capitol through two full Congresses or for four years in all? Various persons who work with official records in the Capitol have told me that this has been the practice.

"A. Not to my knowledge.

"Q. Could you tell us why you thought it desirable this time that the files not be forwarded to the Archives for permanent use of the public?

"A. They had served their purpose. They had been kept for two years and three months. They were taking up valuable space in the file clerk's office that should be used for new files."

As background to all this, the same memorandum makes reference to an article in the Washington Daily News in December 1954 stating that the Department of Justice had started to investigate campaign spending and that agents of the department had already seized stacks of campaign reports, had strewn them around the department and had lawyers busy going through them.

Bears Looking Into

Mr. Roberts, clerk of the House, made an effort at the time to find out if the National Archives office had sent any reports of the 1948 campaign to the Department of Justice but was told that, while these had been requested by it, the request was not granted.

Persons familiar with the way the records have been handled in the past say that it has been customary to keep them available for public inspection through at least two full terms of the House, which would have been in this case through December 1956. The mystery as to what's back of all this has not yet been revealed but the "right to know" committees of the newspaper editors might possibly look into it.

Aspirin's A Wonder Drug But Can Be Dangerous

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Aspirin was a wonder drug long before the turn of the century. It is still popular despite the tremendous strides made in therapy during the past 20 years. Tons of aspirin are manufactured and sold because the consumer is aware of its value.

The salicylates, including aspirin, alleviate headache, neuralgia, and pain due to congestion and inflammation. But severe pain is not eased. These products also reduce fever from infection and add to comfort. In general, aspirin works best when administered early. If it is taken as soon as headache begins, for example, relief usually occurs but after it becomes firmly entrenched the remedy has no effect.

There is another reason why aspirin lives up to its reputation. It stimulates the adrenal glands and, in this respect, its action is similar to that of ACTH, cortisone, and other steroids. These hormones became famous as remedies for arthritis, bursitis, rheumatic fever, and other collagen diseases. This explains why aspirin also is useful in these conditions. More recently, aspirin has been used as a kidney stone preventive.

Large amounts of the salicylates usually can be tolerated. The lethal dose of aspirin is said to be 150 grains. But a single tablet may prove fatal to a person who is extremely sensitive to the drug.

Aspirin reaches the blood stream through the stomach wall. A lethal dose imperils the vital organs and the victim hovers between life and death until the excess is eliminated through the kidneys. Fatal poisoning ensues when the kidneys cannot eliminate the chemical fast enough.

The artificial kidney is the latest weapon to fight aspirin poisoning. This machine is capable of removing salicylates from the blood at a rate 20 times faster than the human kidneys can do the job.

Salicylate poisoning is most common in infants and children. Junior is given a chocolate coated aspirin for a cold and the bottle is placed in the medicine cabinet or on a shelf. Weeks or months later the youngster — older now — discovers the "candy" and finishes the bottle.

Manufacturers are combating this hazard with a special bottle stopper that can be removed easily by an adult but a child finds it more difficult. Meanwhile, health authorities are pounding away at parents to keep drugs out of reach of the toddlers.

TOMORROW: First aid in motor mishaps.

SUSPECTED HERNIA

O. D. writes: Is there any way of finding out if you are ruptured without calling a doctor?

REPLY

Hernia is suspected whenever a soft mass appears in the groin, which enlarges or pulsates on coughing or sneezing. But what's wrong with seeing a physician? There is satisfaction in knowing what is wrong and what to do about it. After all, who will suffer most of hernia exists and it strangulates?

HUNGRY ADOLESCENT

Mrs. E. N. writes: A 14-year-old girl is always hungry and her waistline is shrinking. Do you think she has a tapeworm?

REPLY

No, but it is so easy to make certain, she should consult a physician. Children this age usually eat like horses, but the waistline may appear smaller because the youngster is growing taller and weight is being redistributed. I assume this girl has not put herself on a reducing diet.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Harry Kurnitz told Caskie Stinnett about the day a writer invaded the two-by-four office of a struggling Hollywood agent with a small package in his arms. "What's in that package?" demanded the suspicious agent. "An inflatable lifeboat that will hold eight men," said the writer.

"One more wisecrack," decreed the agent, " and I no longer represent you. Now what's in that package."

So the writer opened the package, pushed the button on the compressed air cylinder, and fled. The boat backed the agent so tightly into a corner it took the fire department to hack him out.

At the British Broadcasting Company, vows Paul Porter, they have a category for documents more sacred even than those classified as "top secret." These ultra-precious papers are stamped "B. B. R.", an abbreviation for "Burn Before Reading."

Prime Minister Nehru Didn't Relish Talking To Dulles Instead Of Ike

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Quite a few diplomatic cables were exchanged across the Atlantic before the State Department was able to sidetrack the long-scheduled visit of Prime Minister Nehru of India.

At first the prime minister was advised informally that the President's illness would interfere with the visit and that while Mr. Eisenhower would be delighted to see him briefly, most of the conferring must be done with Secretary of State Dulles.

This did not please the Indian premier, who has talked to Mr. Dulles before and doesn't particularly like him. He hasn't forgotten that Dulles statement siding with Portugal in the row with India over Goa.

So Nehru was so burned up at the idea of talking to Dulles, not Ike, that his aides indicated he might not come to the U.S.A. at all.

It was at this point that he sent the cable to the President suggesting that the trip be deferred until Ike was fully recovered.

Congressional TV Tricks

There's a trick to everything, including running for Congress. When Congressmen Bill Ayres of Ohio and Glenn Davis of Wisconsin, both Republicans, decided to fly some balloons at the congressional baseball game, the Democrats tried to stop them.

Ayres and Davis, being smart politicians, knew that the annual baseball game between the Democrats and Republicans would be televised. So they prepared some balloons marked "Ayres is a sure hit," "Davis is your friend," and ordered them delivered to the ball park. But they made one mistake. They ordered employes of the Post Office Department to put them on a mail truck for transportation to the stadium.

Whereupon the Democrats got wind of this proposed use of the taxpayers' money for purely political purposes, and Postmaster Morris of the House of Representatives stopped the truck. After that, Davis and Ayres had to hire their own truck. They got the publicity, all right, but at least the taxpayers didn't have to pay for it.

GOP Press On Ike

This newspaperman's mail has increased as a result of the President's illness. Most of my readers seem to be most sympathetic toward Mr. Eisenhower, but want all the facts about his health. Some of them, Republicans, believe GOP leaders are taking advantage of the President, imposing on him, risking his life further by demanding that he run again. A few editors have criticized my columns on Ike's health.

On the other hand, some of the outstanding Republican publishers in the nation have been extremely frank, much franker regarding the second illness than regarding the first.

Wrote John S. Knight of the Detroit Free Press, Miami Herald, Akron Beacon-Journal, and associated newspapers:

"The seriousness of the President's illness has been minimized by friendly editorialists who point to Adlai Stevenson's operation for kidney stones; Harry Truman's gall bladder operation; the recent surgery on Gov. Averell Harriman's prostate gland; Senator Lyndon Johnson's heart attack; and Senator Stuart Symington's sympathectomy for high blood pressure in 1947.

"How idle and misleading it is to pretend that the President, a former heart case and chronic sufferer from gastric disturbances, can fully regain his old vigor. But in their anxiety over the future, the Republican strategists and the big guns in the business world are determined to have Ike run, even though he may not last through a second term under the pressures of the job."

Here are other quotes from Republican or conservative newspapers showing a much more forthright approach this time to the problem of the President's health:

Toledo Blade: "A great many doctors must have said to themselves that they never before heard a doctor speak with such optimism about a patient right after he had undergone major surgery." . . . Richmond, Va., New Leader (Democratic but strongly pro-Eisenhower) "Surgery is nothing to laugh off. It means a strain on an already weakened heart . . . Twice within a nine-month period his body has given way. What might happen in the future is anybody's guess." . . . Hal Burton in Newsday: "The complex of the indispensable man is growing up again in Washington. The last time we suffered that complex was when Franklin Roosevelt was President. He was a great man, but not indispensable. Nobody is. The moment we hit this point in the United States we shall have substituted an elected dictator for an elected president." . . . Houston Chronicle: "The (London) Daily Herald commented with some justification that millions of American voters may 'feel a little sickened, perhaps, if they feel or know that Ike's expectation of life is being sacrificed on the altar of the Republican party.' "

Washington Whirl

Tom Dewey told friends in Washington last week: "I'll be seeing you in 1957." They took this to mean the dapper ex-New York governor intends either to run for the Senate or to join the Eisenhower administration. Most likely: He'll replace John Foster Dulles as secretary of state . . . . The Republican National Committee is so sure Ike will run, despite his health, that it has ordered neon campaign signs with Ike's name in lights. . . . Secretary of Defense Wilson put his own judgment ahead of the combined warnings of all the intelligence agencies when he announced confidently that our giant jet B-52 is "greatly superior in altitude and distance" to the Soviet Bison. Intelligence reports agree that the Bison and the B-52 are nearly equal in performance.

Clover For The Kremlin

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON—The more you study the Middle Eastern crisis, the more you suspect that the essential preliminary of the Soviet intrusion in the Middle East was the famous summit meeting at Geneva, with all its adman's hopes and glories.

Tentative discussions of the crucial Soviet-Egyptian arms deal had of course been opened in the month or two before the summit. Yet before boldly probing for the very vitals of the Western Alliance, the Soviet leaders must at least have wished to know how the West would react. They got the answer at the summit.

The President of the United States and the prime ministers of Great Britain and France went to Geneva with the singular purpose of proving that the great powers of the West were passionately, unshakeably dedicated to peace at any price. There was no better way to encourage the Soviets to take any cold war risk they chose.

Arrant Nonsense

In addition, it is now known that President Eisenhower actually mentioned the Soviet offer to sell arms to Egypt to Bulganin and Khrushchev. According to authentic report, the President was airly told that this was "just an ordinary commercial transaction." Apparently this piece of arrant nonsense was not treated with the contempt and indignation it deserved. So the Soviet leaders left Geneva with complete assurance that they could safely stick a shiv right into the most vulnerable point of the Western Alliance.

Even then, energetic action might well have prevented the worst from happening. Egypt's president Gamal Abdel Nasser had asked for a small quantity of American arms long before he began his talks with the Soviets. His sole concern was then to get some arms —any arms at all—to satisfy the army on which his power depended. All competent observers in Cairo agree that Nasser did not forsee the volume results that the Soviet arms deal would produce.

On this point, the American government had received a long series of frantic warnings from our ambassador to Cairo, Henry A. Byroade (who is now, apparently, to be made a scapegoat). These warnings were ignored. The American arms were withheld. The Soviet-Egyptian arms deal went through.

American Reaction Uncertain

Thus Nasser emerged as the predominant figure in a greatly strengthened Arab nationalist movement, made independent of the West by Soviet support. Thus the Soviets took the first long step towards capturing Arab nationalism, and using this nationalist movement as the instrument to strike at the vital Middle Eastern oil sources of the Western Alliance.

The American reaction to these tremendous developments was uncertain to say the least. After the fall of Glubb Pasha in Jordan, however, the British reaction was violent. The British cabinet decided that Britain would use troops in the Middle East, if this were needed to save the oil that is Britain's lifeblood.

Wisely or unwisely, they proved their resolution by ordering the fight for Cyprus.

Such was the situation when Bulganin and Khrushchev went to London. It can now be revealed that British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden and Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd used the strongest tone possible in their discussion of the Middle Eastern problem. They flatly accused the Soviets of an intentional attack on an area of vital British interest. They warned they would fight to avoid losing the oil. Khrushchev and Bulganin only replied by hinting that they might agree to limitation of arms shipments to the Middle East if the British would abandon the Baghdad Pact—which they know was impossible.

Firm Policy May Help

The upshot was deadlocked. In Cairo and Damascus, the Soviet ambassadors subsequently told the utterly false story that the main theme of Khrushchev and Bulganin in London was the Soviet bloc's determination to give solid support to the Arabs against the Israelis. This was hardly less than in incitement to Arab-Israeli war. If the Kremlin chooses to take that risk, such a war will be a clear gain for the Soviets if the Israelis are defeated, for that will amount to the defeat of the West. And it will also be a clear gain if the Arabs are defeated, for then the Arab nationalist regimes will almost surely be supplanted in the end by Arab Communist regimes.

All the same, in his recent visit to Cario, the new Soviet foreign minister, Shepilov, did not take the final step to bring on an Arab-Israeli war. He did not take the Arab position on Israel's proper frontiers. Shepilov's caution suggests that British firmness, despite its somewhat desperate tone, has made the Soviets at least think twice about the risks in the Middle East. And this in turn suggests that a firm, clear and united Anglo- American policy, if it can ever be worked out, may yet save the day in this critical area.

A Taste Of Freedom Creates A Thirst

What does it feel like to live behind the iron curtain? Americans who have been there see the surface manifestations of strange undercurrents. And that is still true under the "new look."

A correspondent visiting Cluj, Romania, the other day, found at least 100 people crowding to admire his American automobile—a fairly common-place car on American streets, but an impressive sight in Cluj. Even more impressive, he soon realized, was the chance to see and talk to a flesh-and-blood American.

"Do you know what it means to us to see you here?" one young man asked him. "It is like an electric shock."

The feeling of the people seemed to be that the first American they had seen lately was like the first robin, a harbinger of better weather ahead. "A year ago," one of them said, "I would not have dared to speak to you. Who knows what will come to pass in another year?"

In an open-air restaurant, the reporter's party continued to attract attention. Romanians talked to them—with many guarded looks to see who was listening. The Romanians proceeded to drop scraps of information, from which the correspondent pieced together a picture of depression and helplessness.

There formerly was plenty of caviar in Romania. Now the stores offer a roe called "Manchurian caviar"—coals to Newcastle! But Communist officials told the correspondent he must have been seeking out malcontents; most of the people were satisfied. As for this talk about freedom—nonsense; "Doesn't their talking to you show they are free?"!

But a group of college students in Prague found out how much this freedom amounts to. Some of them dared to make demands for a factual press, giving both sides; for an end to the proscription of non-Communist foreign literature; for real debates in Parliament; for an end to kowtowing to Moscow.

They were warned that liberty is not license—that they were out of line when they made "tendentious demands in provocative resolutions" criticising their Communist rulers. They were told to stop abusing the word freedom: "When we hear this word we grow suspicious. It begins with a demand for freedom and ends with freedom for capitalism."

Isn't that just like people? Give them a taste of freedom and they want a lot of it! In Cluj and in Prague, Communist officials will eventually realize that a taste of freedom is too much, or it is not enough. What will they do then?

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Sobell Case

The efforts that are being made to have Morton Sobell released remind me of an episode during the first year of the Russian Revolution. Big Bill Haywood was in jail in the United States and a group of Bolsheviks had decided that the best way to get Haywood freed quickly would be to kidnap the American ambassador, David Frances, and then exchange prisoner for prisoner. It was Trotzky who foiled the plot. In the first place, he put a tank with machine guns in front of the embassy; then he told me and I told Francis.

It is certainly no crime for the friends of Morton Sobell to try to get him out of prison, provided they do it by due process of the law. Getting the aged Bertrand Russell or the existential Jean Paul Sartre to intervene is not due process. Their opinions may be interesting to their followers but cut no ice here.

Sobell's lawyers have appeared in court, before Judge Irving Kaufman, to plead that the verdict sentencing him to 30 years imprisonment be set aside on the ground that his constitutional rights had been violated. This contradicts the statement of his lawyer, E. H. Bloch, at the time of his trial. As I read Judge Kaufman's decision, no claim is made that Sobell is innocent of having conspired with Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, and with Harry Gold, David Greenglass, Klaus Fuchs and others to steal the atom bomb from the Manhattan Project at Los Alamos.

In one form or another, the Rosenberg-Sobell cases have appeared before the United States Court of Appeals six times and before the United States Supreme Court six times and the conviction has remained undisturbed.

Judge Kaufman makes this important point which apparently neither Bertrand Russell nor Jean Paul Sartre, who have intervened, recognize:

"It is difficult to find a case in the history of American jurisprudence, or indeed in the judicial annals of any other country, where the defendants' convictions and contentions have received the attention of so many judges at so many levels of a judicial system, as well as that of the President of the United States on applications for executive clemency. Not a single legal recourse has been or will be denied to Sobell."

Sobell's lawyers aver that Sobell was kidnapped from Mexico by agents of the Mexican Secret Police "who were acting under the orders of the FBI, and that he was thus forcibly and illegally returned to the United States against his will . . ." Sobell's contention is that he would have returned willingly and that it was improper for the Mexican government to deport him and that actually such "kidnapping violated a treaty between the United States and Mexico." The Government of the United States denies the alleged kidnapping.

Sobell tells a harrowing tale of having been beaten by the Mexican police until he was unconscious. It is to be pointed out that Sobell did not claim the benefit of these facts until five days after his conviction. Judge Jerome Frank, who heard his first appeal, said:

"Sobell waived his right to challenge personal jurisdiction in this trial . . . (H)e made no move to bring to light the facts of his alleged illegal abduction. He preferred to take his chances on the verdict, withholding his trump card until the trial was over. The Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure allow no such tactic."

Sobell's lawyers produced no new evidence of his guiltlessness; they only claim that the original court in which the trial occurred lacked jurisdiction. To this Judge Kaufman replies:

". . . He seems to believe that by the mere device of changing attorneys and relabeling his claims, he may return to court time after time with the same basic argument . . ."

Aspirin's A Wonder Drug But Can Be Dangerous

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Aspirin was a wonder drug long before the turn of the century. It is still popular despite the tremendous strides made in therapy during the past 20 years. Tons of aspirin are manufactured and sold because the consumer is aware of its value.

The salicylates, including aspirin, alleviate headache, neuralgia, and pain due to congestion and inflammation. But severe pain is not eased. These products also reduce fever from infection and add to comfort. In general, aspirin works best when administered early. If it is taken as soon as headache begins, for example, relief usually occurs but after it becomes firmly entrenched the remedy has no effect.

There is another reason why aspirin lives up to its reputation. It stimulates the adrenal glands and, in this respect, its action is similar to that of ACTH, cortisone, and other steroids. These hormones became famous as remedies for arthritis, bursitis, rheumatic fever, and other collagen diseases. This explains why aspirin also is useful in these conditions. More recently, aspirin has been used as a kidney stone preventive.

Large amounts of the salicylates usually can be tolerated. The lethal dose of aspirin is said to be 150 grains. But a single tablet may prove fatal to a person who is extremely sensitive to the drug.

Aspirin reaches the blood stream through the stomach wall. A lethal dose imperils the vital organs and the victim hovers between life and death until the excess is eliminated through the kidneys. Fatal poisoning ensues when the kidneys cannot eliminate the chemical fast enough.

The artificial kidney is the latest weapon to fight aspirin poisoning. This machine is capable of removing salicylates from the blood at a rate 20 times faster than the human kidneys can do the job.

Salicylate poisoning is most common in infants and children. Junior is given a chocolate coated aspirin for a cold and the bottle is placed in the medicine cabinet or on a shelf. Weeks or months later the youngster — older now — discovers the "candy" and finishes the bottle.

Manufacturers are combating this hazard with a special bottle stopper that can be removed easily by an adult but a child finds it more difficult. Meanwhile, health authorities are pounding away at parents to keep drugs out of reach of the toddlers.

TOMORROW: First aid in motor mishaps.

SUSPECTED HERNIA

O. D. writes: Is there any way of finding out if you are ruptured without calling a doctor?

REPLY

Hernia is suspected whenever a soft mass appears in the groin, which enlarges or pulsates on coughing or sneezing. But what's wrong with seeing a physician? There is satisfaction in knowing what is wrong and what to do about it. After all, who will suffer most of hernia exists and it strangulates?

HUNGRY ADOLESCENT

Mrs. E. N. writes: A 14-year-old girl is always hungry and her waistline is shrinking. Do you think she has a tapeworm?

REPLY

No, but it is so easy to make certain, she should consult a physician. Children this age usually eat like horses, but the waistline may appear smaller because the youngster is growing taller and weight is being redistributed. I assume this girl has not put herself on a reducing diet.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Harry Kurnitz told Caskie Stinnett about the day a writer invaded the two-by-four office of a struggling Hollywood agent with a small package in his arms. "What's in that package?" demanded the suspicious agent. "An inflatable lifeboat that will hold eight men," said the writer.

"One more wisecrack," decreed the agent, " and I no longer represent you. Now what's in that package."

So the writer opened the package, pushed the button on the compressed air cylinder, and fled. The boat backed the agent so tightly into a corner it took the fire department to hack him out.

At the British Broadcasting Company, vows Paul Porter, they have a category for documents more sacred even than those classified as "top secret." These ultra-precious papers are stamped "B. B. R.", an abbreviation for "Burn Before Reading."

Prime Minister Nehru Didn't Relish Talking To Dulles Instead Of Ike

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Quite a few diplomatic cables were exchanged across the Atlantic before the State Department was able to sidetrack the long-scheduled visit of Prime Minister Nehru of India.

At first the prime minister was advised informally that the President's illness would interfere with the visit and that while Mr. Eisenhower would be delighted to see him briefly, most of the conferring must be done with Secretary of State Dulles.

This did not please the Indian premier, who has talked to Mr. Dulles before and doesn't particularly like him. He hasn't forgotten that Dulles statement siding with Portugal in the row with India over Goa.

So Nehru was so burned up at the idea of talking to Dulles, not Ike, that his aides indicated he might not come to the U.S.A. at all

It was at this point that he sent the cable to the President suggesting that the trip be deferred until Ike was fully recovered.

Congressional TV Tricks

There's a trick to everything, including running for Congress. When Congressmen Bill Ayres of Ohio and Glenn Davis of Wisconsin, both Republicans, decided to fly some balloons at the congressional baseball game, the Democrats tried to stop them.

Ayres and Davis, being smart politicians, knew that the annual baseball game between the Democrats and Republicans would be televised. So they prepared some balloons marked "Ayres is a sure hit," "Davis is your friend," and ordered them delivered to the ball park. But they made one mistake. They ordered employes of the Post Office Department to put them on a mail truck for transportation to the stadium.

Whereupon the Democrats got wind of this proposed use of the taxpayers' money for purely political purposes, and Postmaster Morris of the House of Representatives stopped the truck. After that, Davis and Ayres had to hire their own truck. They got the publicity, all right, but at least the taxpayers didn't have to pay for it.

GOP Press On Ike

This newspaperman's mail has increased as a result of the President's illness. Most of my readers seem to be most sympathetic toward Mr. Eisenhower, but want all the facts about his health. Some of them, Republicans, believe GOP leaders are taking advantage of the President, imposing on him, risking his life further by demanding that he run again. A few editors have criticized my columns on Ike's health.

On the other hand, some of the outstanding Republican publishers in the nation have been extremely frank, much franker regarding the second illness than regarding the first.

Wrote John S. Knight of the Detroit Free Press, Miami Herald, Akron Beacon-Journal, and associated newspapers:

"The seriousness of the President's illness has been minimized by friendly editorialists who point to Adlai Stevenson's operation for kidney stones; Harry Truman's gall bladder operation; the recent surgery on Gov. Averell Harriman's prostate gland; Senator Lyndon Johnson's heart attack; and Senator Stuart Symington's sympathectomy for high blood pressure in 1947.

"How idle and misleading it is to pretend that the President, a former heart case and chronic sufferer from gastric disturbances, can fully regain his old vigor. But in their anxiety over the future, the Republican strategists and the big guns in the business world are determined to have Ike run, even though he may not last through a second term under the pressures of the job."

Here are other quotes from Republican or conservative newspapers showing a much more forthright approach this time to the problem of the President's health:

Toledo Blade: "A great many doctors must have said to themselves that they never before heard a doctor speak with such optimism about a patient right after he had undergone major surgery." . . . . Richmond, Va., News Leader (Democratic but strongly pro-Eisenhower) "Surgery is nothing to laugh off. It means a strain on an already weakened heart . . . Twice within a nine-month period his body has given way. What might happen in the future is anybody's guess." . . . . Hal Burton in Newsday: "The complex of the indispensable man is growing up again in Washington. The last time we suffered that complex was when Franklin Roosevelt was President. He was a great man, but not indispensable. Nobody is. The moment we hit this point in the United States we shall have substituted an elected dictator for an elected president." . . . . Houston Chronicle: "The (London) Daily Herald commented with some justification that millions of American voters may 'feel a little sickened, perhaps, if they feel or know that Ike's expectation of life is being sacrificed on the altar of the Republican party.' "

Washington Whirl

Tom Dewey told friends in Washington last week: "I'll be seeing you in 1957." They took this to mean the dapper ex-New York governor intends either to run for the Senate or to join the Eisenhower administration. Most likely: He'll replace John Foster Dulles as secretary of state . . . . The Republican National Committee is so sure Ike will run, despite his health, that it has ordered neon campaign signs with Ike's name in lights. . . . Secretary of Defense Wilson put his own judgment ahead of the combined warnings of all the intelligence agencies when he announced confidently that our giant jet B-52 is "greatly superior in altitude and distance" to the Soviet Bison. Intelligence reports agree that the Bison and the B-52 are nearly equal in performance.

Clover For The Kremlin

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON—The more you study the Middle Eastern crisis, the more you suspect that the essential preliminary of the Soviet intrusion in the Middle East was the famous summit meeting at Geneva, with all its adman's hopes and glories.

Tentative discussions of the crucial Soviet-Egyptian arms deal had of course been opened in the month or two before the summit. Yet before boldly probing for the very vitals of the Western Alliance, the Soviet leaders must at least have wished to know how the West would react. They got the answer at the summit.

The President of the United States and the prime ministers of Great Britain and France went to Geneva with the singular purpose of proving that the great powers of the West were passionately, unshakeably dedicated to peace at any price. There was no better way to encourage the Soviets to take any cold war risk they chose.

Arrant Nonsense

In addition, it is now known that President Eisenhower actually mentioned the Soviet offer to sell arms to Egypt to Bulganin and Khrushchev. According to authentic report, the President was airly told that this was "just an ordinary commercial transaction." Apparently this piece of arrant nonsense was not treated with the contempt and indignation it deserved. So the Soviet leaders left Geneva with complete assurance that they could safely stick a shiv right into the most vulnerable point of the Western Alliance.

Even then, energetic action might well have prevented the worst from happening. Egypt's president Gamal Abdel Nasser had asked for a small quantity of American arms long before he began his talks with the Soviets. His sole concern was then to get some arms —any arms at all—to satisfy the army on which his power depended. All competent observers in Cairo agree that Nasser did not forsee the volume results that the Soviet arms deal would produce.

On this point, the American government had received a long series of frantic warnings from our ambassador to Cairo, Henry A. Byroade (who is now, apparently, to be made a scapegoat). These warnings were ignored. The American arms were withheld. The Soviet-Egyptian arms deal went through.

American Reaction Uncertain

Thus Nasser emerged as the predominant figure in a greatly strengthened Arab nationalist movement, made independent of the West by Soviet support. Thus the Soviets took the first long step towards capturing Arab nationalism, and using this nationalist movement as the instrument to strike at the vital Middle Eastern oil sources of the Western Alliance.

The American reaction to these tremendous developments was uncertain to say the least. After the fall of Glubb Pasha in Jordan, however, the British reaction was violent. The British cabinet decided that Britain would use troops in the Middle East, if this were needed to save the oil that is Britain's lifeblood.

Wisely or unwisely, they proved their resolution by ordering the fight for Cyprus.

Such was the situation when Bulganin and Khrushchev went to London. It can now be revealed that British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden and Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd used the strongest tone possible in their discussion of the Middle Eastern problem. They flatly accused the Soviets of an intentional attack on an area of vital British interest. They warned they would fight to avoid losing the oil. Khrushchev and Bulganin only replied by hinting that they might agree to limitation of arms shipments to the Middle East if the British would abandon the Baghdad Pact—which they know was impossible.

Firm Policy May Help

The upshot was deadlocked. In Cairo and Damascus, the Soviet ambassadors subsequently told the utterly false story that the main theme of Khrushchev and Bulganin in London was the Soviet bloc's determination to give solid support to the Arabs against the Israelis. This was hardly less than in incitement to Arab-Israeli war. If the Kremlin chooses to take that risk, such a war will be a clear gain for the Soviets if the Israelis are defeated, for that will amount to the defeat of the West. And it will also be a clear gain if the Arabs are defeated, for then the Arab nationalist regimes will almost surely be supplanted in the end by Arab Communist regimes.

All the same, in his recent visit to Cario, the new Soviet foreign minister, Shepilov, did not take the final step to bring on an Arab-Israeli war. He did not take the Arab position on Israel's proper frontiers. Shepilov's caution suggests that British firmness, despite its somewhat desperate tone, has made the Soviets at least think twice about the risks in the Middle East. And this in turn suggests that a firm, clear and united Anglo- American policy, if it can ever be worked out, may yet save the day in this critical area.

Two Charged In Shooting Of RR Signals

Two Frostburg area youths have been apprehended by authorities and charged with shooting out a control signal box on the Western Maryland Railway line.

The case first developed on December 31, 1955 when the 16-year-old youths are alleged to have shot two "pumpkin balls" from a 12 gauge rifle into the automatic signal control box one mile west of the Frostburg Station near Borden.

The boys were apprehended Monday, six months later, by Lt. B. F. Bealky, who is in charge of the Western Maryland Railway Police, H. W. Davis of the Railway Police Department and Deputy Sheriff George Harris.

A statement, admitting the damage, was obtained Tuesday by Edwin R. Lilya, criminal investigator for Allegany County, in the State's Attorney's office.

Lt Bealky said yesterday that although the control box was damaged on December 31, the damage was not discovered until January 3, 1956 when the wiring inside the box broke, and trouble developed with the signals.

Authorities opened their investigation after the trouble developed and two empty cartridges were found near the control box.

Following an intensive investigation by Western Maryland authorities one of the two boys was apprehended and related the story to police.

Western Maryland authorities said the damage amounted to only $66 in property value, but that a great deal of damage could have been caused had a train been in the block when the signals broke.

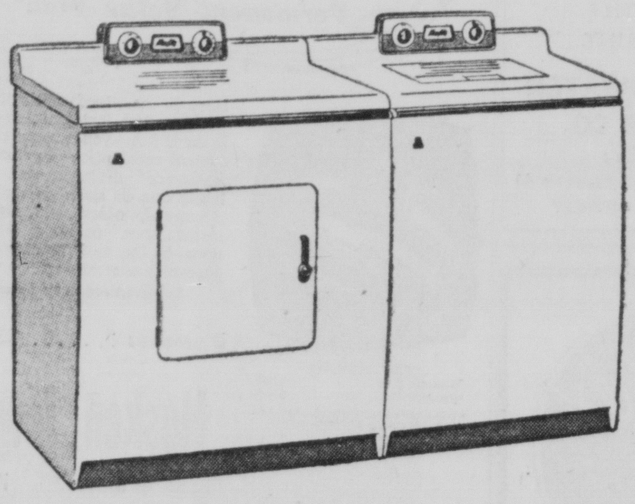

As the case developed when the signals did break on January 3, all trains were out of the block and no accidents occurred.

Lt. Bealky pointed out that signs have been posted along the route, and persons caught carrying weapons and violating the law will be prosecuted.

The boys have been released in the custody of their parents and will be given hearings Friday morning in Juvenile Court.

Taxpayers In Frostburg Delinquent

Collector Notes Serious Situation

FROSTBURG — City Tax Collector J. Harry Hanson appeared before the Mayor and Commissioners Monday evening and reported that a serious condition has developed in the water and personal property tax situation. He stated that, as of this date, there are 258 persons delinquent in their water rents, amounting to the sum of $2,294.53 and 149 property owners in the city who are delinquent in their taxes in the amount of $4 510.83.

Some of these accounts are far in arrears, and the persons concerned have ignored repeated warnings regarding them, he said.

Hanson noted that the printed notice of arrears states, "By order of the Mayor and Councilmen of Frostburg — Unless the taxes and interest are paid within 30 days after the receipt of this notice, I will proceed to collect the same by way of distress or execution to be levied on said real or personal property.

The commissioners informed Hanson that it was necessary for him to proceed with the collection of these delinquencies in the manner prescribed by law, otherwise he would be held personally responsible for the amounts.

Hanson stated that he hoped that this drastic action would not be necessary. However, unless he receives immediate cooperation from those citizens who are in arrears with their taxes and water rents he will take immediate action.

Taxpayers In Frostburg Delinquent

Collector Notes Serious Situation

FROSTBURG — City Tax Collector J. Harry Hanson appeared before the Mayor and Commissioners Monday evening and reported that a serious condition has developed in the water and personal property tax situation. He stated that, as of this date, there are 258 persons delinquent in their water rents, amounting to the sum of $2,294.53 and 149 property owners in the city who are delinquent in their taxes in the amount of $4,510.83.

Some of these accounts are far in arrears, and the persons concerned have ignored repeated warnings regarding them, he said.

Hanson noted that the printed notice of arrears states, "By order of the Mayor and Councilmen of Frostburg — Unless the taxes and interest are paid within 30 days after the receipt of this notice, I will proceed to collect the same by way of distress or execution to be levied on said real or personal property.

The commissioners informed Hanson that it was necessary for him to proceed with the collection of these delinquencies in the manner prescribed by law, otherwise he would be held personally responsible for the amounts.

Hanson stated that he hoped that this drastic action would not be necessary. However, unless he receives immediate cooperation from those citizens who are in arrears with their taxes and water rents he will take immediate action.

Bosox Hammer Chicago, 11-9, To Snap Winning Streak

Nine-Game Skein Ends For Chisox

Ted Williams Gets Four Hits; Howell Is Losing Pitcher

CHICAGO, June 27 (AP) — The Boston Red Sox withered away a seven run lead but came up with a three-run eighth inning rally to beat the White Sox 11-9 and snap Chicago's nine - game winning streak.

Boston battered seven Chicago pitchers for 15 hits with Ted Williams slamming four singles through the "Williams Shift" in five official at bats.

The game-winning rally in the eighth came after Dixie Howell, fourth Chicago pitcher, had retired the first two men. Don Buddin doubled and pinch batter Dick Gernert's single broke an 8-8 tie. Singles by Billy Goodman, Billy Klaus and Williams sent two more runs across.

Boston scored two runs without a hit in the second inning on a hit batsman, a walk, an error and a pair of infield outs. Another run came across on a pair of walks and a single by Jim Piersall in the third and the Red Sox seemingly had the game in the bag with four runs in the fourth on four singles and a double by Goodman.

Chicago picked up three runs in the fourth on a triple by Minnie Minoso, a single by Larry Doby and Fred Hatfield's first homer of the year. Boston added another marker in the fifth on a run-scoring single by Williams but Boston starter Frank Sullivan loaded the bases with three walks in the bottom of the fifth and Dave Philley cleared them with a double.

Howell sent the crowd of 15,771 wild in the sixth when he hit his first major league home run into the centerfield bull pen with one on to throw the game into a tie.

Philley cracked his third home run of the season in the ninth to score Chicago's last run.

Despite the loss, Chicago had one of its most successful home stands, winning 12 of 14 games.

Boyer Belts Two Homers In 6-0 Win

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Ken Boyer hit two home runs today, taking over the National League lead with a total of 19, as the St. Louis Cardinals shut out the New York Giants 6-0 on the five hit pitching of Tom Poholsky.

Boyer hit his first of the day off Johnny Antonelli in the second inning for the first run of the game. Hal Smith also hit his third of the season in the same inning, before rain interrupted play for an hour and five minutes. Boyer slammed No. 19, also off Antonelli in the third after Al Dark walked. A few minutes later there was another long delay because of rain.

Bill White, who tripled with two out in the third, was the only Giant to advance past first base. The other hits were all singles.

Tribe Rallies To Beat Birds In 11 Innings

Cleveland Wins Slugfest 12 To 11

CLEVELAND, June 27 (AP) —The Indians came from behind twice, once overcoming an eight run deficit, to beat the Baltimore Orioles 12-11 today in a long, wild 11-inning contest that stretched the Tribe's winning streak to eight straight games.

Chico Carrasquel's fifth hit of the game, a single to left field with one out, scored Al Rosen from second base with the winning run. Rosen had singled, and stole second as winning pitcher Don Mossi struck out.

There were 32 hits in the three hour and 47 minute contest, that saw six pitchers parade to the mound for Cleveland and three for Baltimore. Cleveland outhit the Orioles 17-15.

The loss went to Hector Brown, who came in in the fifth inning and allowed the Indians only five hits in the final seven frames.

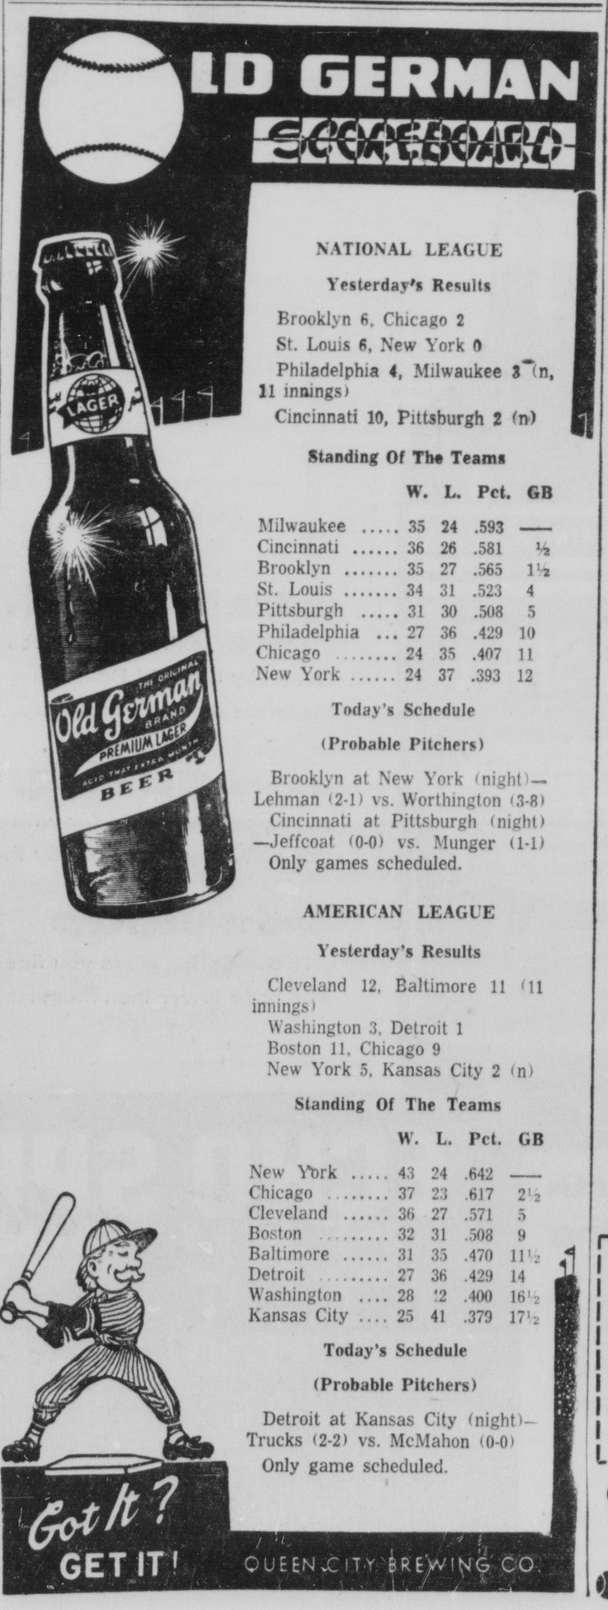

A feature of the Orioles attack were back-to-back homers in the ninth off the bats of Tito Francona and Dick Williams. That gave Baltimore an 11-9 lead but the Indians tied it in their half.

Brooks Defeat Chicago, 6-2

Rain, Damp Turf Hurts Outfielders

BROOKLYN, June 27 (AP)—Brooklyn hopped on Warren Hacker for four runs in the fourth inning with the help of two Chicago errors to beat the Cubs 6-2 in a rain-spattered game that found outfielders skidding on the wet turf and splashing through puddles.

Eddie Miksis, Cubs' centerfielder, was injured when he fell in the mud trying to field Rube Walker's double off the wall in the third. Junior Gilliam's single scored Walker with the first run of the day.

Duke Snider splashed a single to right field to open the big fourth inning. After fouling off two bunts, Ransom Jackson doubled to right, scoring Snider. Jackson also scored when Walt Moryn's throw went through catcher Hobie Landrith.

After Gil Hodges flied out, singles by Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo, a fumble by Moryn and an intentional walk filled the bases. Roger Craig's sacrifice fly scored Robinson and Gilliam's single drove in Carl Furillo. Furillo hit his seventh homer off reliefer Turk Lown in the eighth.

Bosox Hammer Chicago, 11-9, To Snap Winning Streak

Nine-Game Skein Ends For Chisox

Ted Williams Gets Four Hits; Howell Is Losing Pitcher

CHICAGO, June 27 (AP) — The Boston Red Sox withered away a seven run lead but came up with a three-run eighth inning rally to beat the White Sox 11-9 and snap Chicago's nine - game winning streak.

Boston battered seven Chicago pitchers for 15 hits with Ted Williams slamming four singles through the "Williams Shift" in five official at bats.

The game-winning rally in the eighth came after Dixie Howell, fourth Chicago pitcher, had retired the first two men. Don Buddin doubled and pinch batter Dick Gernert's single broke an 8-8 tie. Singles by Billy Goodman, Billy Klaus and Williams sent two more runs across.

Boston scored two runs without a hit in the second inning on a hit batsman, a walk, an error and a pair of infield outs. Another run came across on a pair of walks and a single by Jim Piersall in the third and the Red Sox seemingly had the game in the bag with four runs in the fourth on four singles and a double by Goodman.

Chicago picked up three runs in the fourth on a triple by Minnie Minoso, a single by Larry Doby and Fred Hatfield's first homer of the year. Boston added another marker in the fifth on a run-scoring single by Williams but Boston starter Frank Sullivan loaded the bases with three walks in the bottom of the fifth and Dave Philley cleared them with a double.

Howell sent the crowd of 15,771 wild in the sixth when he hit his first major league home run into the centerfield bull pen with one on to throw the game into a tie.

Philley cracked his third home run of the season in the ninth to score Chicago's last run.

Despite the loss, Chicago had one of its most successful home stands, winning 12 of 14 games.

Boyer Belts Two Homers In 6-0 Win

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Ken Boyer hit two home runs today, taking over the National League lead with a total of 19, as the St. Louis Cardinals shut out the New York Giants 6-0 on the five hit pitching of Tom Poholsky.

Boyer hit his first of the day off Johnny Antonelli in the second inning for the first run of the game. Hal Smith also hit his third of the season in the same inning, before rain interrupted play for an hour and five minutes. Boyer slammed No. 19, also off Antonelli in the third after Al Dark walked. A few minutes later there was another long delay because of rain.

Bill White, who tripled with two out in the third, was the only Giant to advance past first base. The other hits were all singles.

Tribe Rallies To Beat Birds In 11 Innings

Cleveland Wins Slugfest 12 To 11

CLEVELAND, June 27 (AP) —The Indians came from behind twice, once overcoming an eight run deficit, to beat the Baltimore Orioles 12-11 today in a long, wild 11-inning contest that stretched the Tribe's winning streak to eight straight games.

Chico Carrasquel's fifth hit of the game, a single to left field with one out, scored Al Rosen from second base with the winning run. Rosen had singled, and stole second as winning pitcher Don Mossi struck out.

There were 32 hits in the three hour and 47 minute contest, that saw six pitchers parade to the mound for Cleveland and three for Baltimore. Cleveland outhit the Orioles 17-15.

The loss went to Hector Brown, who came in in the fifth inning and allowed the Indians only five hits in the final seven frames.

A feature of the Orioles attack were back-to-back homers in the ninth off the bats of Tito Francona and Dick Williams. That gave Baltimore an 11-9 lead but the Indians tied it in their half.

Rain, Damp Turf Hurts Outfielders

BROOKLYN, June 27 (AP)—Brooklyn hopped on Warren Hacker for four runs in the fourth inning with the help of two Chicago errors to beat the Cubs 6-2 in a rain-spattered game that found outfielders skidding on the wet turf and splashing through puddles.

Eddie Miksis, Cubs' centerfielder, was injured when he fell in the mud trying to field Rube Walker's double off the wall in the third. Junior Gilliam's single scored Walker with the first run of the day.

Duke Snider splashed a single to right field to open the big fourth inning. After fouling off two bunts, Ransom Jackson doubled to right, scoring Snider. Jackson also scored when Walt Moryn's throw went through catcher Hobie Landrith.

After Gil Hodges flied out, singles by Jackie Robinson and Carl Furillo, a fumble by Moryn and an intentional walk filled the bases. Roger Craig's sacrifice fly scored Robinson and Gilliam's single drove in Carl Furillo. Furillo hit his seventh homer off reliefer Turk Lown in the eighth.

104 Women Golfers Enter 6th CCC Invitation Tournament

TOP GOLFERS READY FOR TOURNEY — These top golfers from Virginia, District of Columbia and Maryland country clubs are ready to tee off today in the first round of the sixth annual Women's Invitation Golf Tournament at the Cumberland Country Club. They are among the 104 players who will participate in the two-day, 36-hole medal play with the Old Export Bowl the top prize awarded by the Cumberland Brewing Company. Left to right are Mrs. Rod Watson, Manor Country Club, Norbeck, Va.; Mrs. Lester Barnacle, Congressional Country Club, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. George Noble, Kenwood, Md., Country Club; Mrs. Vera Henderson, past champion of Congressional Country Club; Mrs. Ray Keppler, Manor Country Club; and Mrs. Evelyn Jani, Congressional Country Club.

Old Export Bowl Is Top Prize Offered

Mrs. Maurice Glick Favored In Tourney, Miss Downey Missing

The Cumberland Country Club's Women's Golf Association has received 104 entries for its sixth annual invitation two-day golf tournament which gets underway this morning.

The first round of the 36-hole medal play tournament is scheduled to start at 8:30 a. m. with the women golfers teeing off at five minute intervals from the first and 10th holes, playing in threesomes.

The top prize for the medalist is the Old Export Bowl, a sterling silver punch bowl which must be won three times to be retired by an individual. It is donated by the Cumberland Brewing Company.

The Old Export Bowl offered this year is the second in the six years the tournament has been held here. Miss Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore, retired the first trophy by winning it for the third straight year in 1955. Miss Downey is missing this year as she is playing in the British Women's Amateur Tournament which is now underway in Sunningdale, England.

Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, who has the smallest handicap among the entries filed with Mrs. Somerville Nicholson here, will be favored to capture the first leg on the new Export trophy.

Mrs. Nicholson, chairman of the association's tournament, said entries have been received from 24 country clubs in Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia.

The golfers have been divided into three divisions to simplify tee off times, Mrs. Nicholson said. The first division will begin teeing off at 9 o'clock at the No. 1 hole, the second division tees off at 8:30 a. m. at the No. 1 hole and the third division begins play at 11:10 a. m. on the 10th tee.

Among the players entered are Mrs. Glick who has captured the Baltimore City tournament eight times. Mrs. Glick plays out of the Woodholme Country Club of Baltimore.

Also participating will be Mrs. Claude Richards of the Country Club of Maryland in Baltimore, well-known in the trapshooting world as well as for her golfing ability; Mrs. James Swink, title holder of the Belle Haven Country Club of Arlington, Va.; Mrs. George Noble, present club champion of the Kenwood Country Club; and Mrs. Marge Trouchard, former champion of the Kenwood club, Kenwood, Md.

GOLF TOURNAMENT TROPHIES ON DISPLAY — The large number of trophies which will be awarded at the close of the two-day, 36-hole sixth annual Women's Invitation Golf Tournament at the Cumberland Country Club are placed on display in the club lobby. Included among the numerous silver trophies is the large Old Export Bowl, which will go to the winner of the tournament which gets underway this morning on the local golf course. Three legs on the trophy must be won to retire the award donated by the Cumberland Brewing Company. Looking over the display are three members of the local women's golf association. They are, left to right, Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, Mrs. Milton Beneman and Mrs. Richard Trevaskis.

Wiesler Hands Tigers 10th Loss In 11 Games, 3-1

DETROIT, June 27 (AP) —Southpaw Bob Wiesler pitched his second complete game of the season today as the Washington Nationals whipped the Detroit Tigers 3-1 on a five hit performance.

It was the 11th start without a victory for the Tigers although they battled the Senators to a 2-2 deadlock last night. The usually erratic Wiesler, who had walked 53 batters in 54 2-3 innings, gave up just two walks today. The big lefthander, obtained from the New York Yankees, lost his bid for Washington's first shutout when Charlie Maxwell homered into the upper right field deck in the ninth. It was Maxwell's 13th of the season.

104 Women Golfers Enter 6th CCC Invitation Tournament

TOP GOLFERS READY FOR TOURNEY — These top golfers from Virginia, District of Columbia and Maryland country clubs are ready to tee off today in the first round of the sixth annual Women's Invitation Golf Tournament at the Cumberland Country Club. They are among the 104 players who will participate in the two-day, 36-hole medal play with the Old Export Bowl the top prize awarded by the Cumberland Brewing Company. Left to right are Mrs. Rod Watson, Manor Country Club, Norbeck, Va.; Mrs. Lester Barnacle, Congressional Country Club, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. George Noble, Kenwood, Md., Country Club; Mrs. Vera Henderson, past champion of Congressional Country Club; Mrs. Ray Keppler, Manor Country Club; and Mrs. Evelyn Jani, Congressional Country Club.

Old Export Bowl Is Top Prize Offered

Mrs. Maurice Glick Favored In Tourney, Miss Downey Missing

The Cumberland Country Club's Women's Golf Association has received 104 entries for its sixth annual invitation two-day golf tournament which gets underway this morning.

The first round of the 36-hole medal play tournament is scheduled to start at 8:30 a. m. with the women golfers teeing off at five minute intervals from the first and 10th holes, playing in threesomes.

The top prize for the medalist is the Old Export Bowl, a sterling silver punch bowl which must be won three times to be retired by an individual. It is donated by the Cumberland Brewing Company.

The Old Export Bowl offered this year is the second in the six years the tournament has been held here. Miss Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore, retired the first trophy by winning it for the third straight year in 1955. Miss Downey is missing this year as she is playing in the British Women's Amateur Tournament which is now underway in Sunningdale, England.

Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, who has the smallest handicap among the entries filed with Mrs. Somerville Nicholson here, will be favored to capture the first leg on the new Export trophy.

Mrs. Nicholson, chairman of the association's tournament, said entries have been received from 24 country clubs in Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia and West Virginia.

The golfers have been divided into three divisions to simplify tee off times, Mrs. Nicholson said. The first division will begin teeing off at 9 o'clock at the No. 1 hole, the second division tees off at 8:30 a. m. at the No. 1 hole and the third division begins play at 11:10 a. m. on the 10th tee.

Among the players entered are Mrs. Glick who has captured the Baltimore City tournament eight times. Mrs. Glick plays out of the Woodholme Country Club of Baltimore.

Also participating will be Mrs. Claude Richards of the Country Club of Maryland in Baltimore, well-known in the trapshooting world as well as for her golfing ability; Mrs. James Swink, title holder of the Belle Haven Country Club of Arlington, Va.; Mrs. George Noble, present club champion of the Kenwood Country Club; and Mrs. Marge Trouchard, former champion of the Kenwood club, Kenwood, Md.

GOLF TOURNAMENT TROPHIES ON DISPLAY — The large number of trophies which will be awarded at the close of the two-day, 36-hole sixth annual Women's Invitation Golf Tournament at the Cumberland Country Club are placed on display in the club lobby. Included among the numerous silver trophies is the large Old Export Bowl, which will go to the winner of the tournament which gets underway this morning on the local golf course. Three legs on the trophy must be won to retire the award donated by the Cumberland Brewing Company. Looking over the display are three members of the local women's golf association. They are, left to right, Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, Mrs. Milton Beneman and Mrs. Richard Trevaskis.

The usually erratic Wiesler, who had walked 53 batters in 54 2-3 innings, gave up just two walks today. MILWAUKEE, June 27 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves today suspended reserve outfielder-infielder Jim Pendleton for failing to report to their Wichita, Kan., farm club in the AAA American Assn.

Pendleton's 72-hour deadline has expired since we sent him down June 15," said General Manager John Quinn. "That means automatic suspension for failure to report."

Phillies, Braves Cop Little League Wins

The Phillies downed the Pirates, 5-2, at Penn Avenue field in a Dapper Division game while the Braves edged the Indians, 11-10, in a slugfest at Campobello in the Dan Division of the Little League yesterday.

Jim Powelson pitched four-hit ball, blanking the Pirates until the last inning for the Phillies. Gary Merritt with a double and single and Bobby Reed with a single and two-bagger paced the winners' attack. Reed's double would have been an inside the park homer but a teammate on base failed to touch third while scoring and cancelled the run, reducing the hit to a double.

Ketterman with a double and single and Davis with a two-bagger were the top men for the Pirates.

Jim Stewart banged out two homeruns to help his own cause as he hurled the Braves to victory over the Indians. He also collected a single. The two circuit swats made it four in two games for the righthander. Jim Brinkman had a double and two singles in the 15-hit Braves assault.

Stratton's triple and two singles were the big noise for the Indians.

The loss by the Pirates made it two straight as they dropped Monday's game to the Giants, 4-3, with Whitman taking the loss and Mike Miller winning for the Giants. The scores:

AT PENN AVENUE

PIRATES	000 002	2	4	3

Pendleton Suspended For Failure To Report

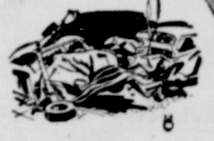

MILWAUKEE, June 27 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves today suspended reserve outfielder-infielder Jim Pendleton for failing to report to their Wichita, Kan., farm club in the AAA American Assn.

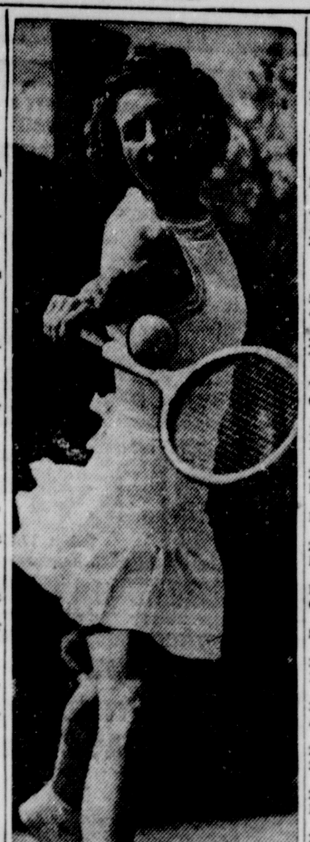

Pendleton's 72-hour deadline has expired since we sent him down June 15," said General Manager John Quinn. "That means automatic suspension for failure to report."

Pendleton failed to get a hit in eight pinch hitting appearances this season.

Phillies, Braves Cop Little League Wins

The Phillies downed the Pirates, 5-2, at Penn Avenue field in a Dapper Division game while the Braves edged the Indians, 11-10, in a slugfest at Campobello in the Dan Division of the Little League yesterday.

Jim Powelson pitched four-hit ball, blanking the Pirates until the last inning for the Phillies. Gary Merritt with a double and single and Bobby Reed with a single and two-bagger paced the winners' attack. Reed's double would have been an inside the park homer but a teammate on base failed to touch third while scoring and cancelled the run, reducing the hit to a double.

Ketterman with a double and single and Davis with a two-bagger were the top men for the Pirates.

Jim Stewart banged out two homeruns to help his own cause as he hurled the Braves to victory over the Indians. He also collected a single. The two circuit swats made it four in two games for the righthander. Jim Brinkman had a double and two singles in the 15-hit Braves assault.

Stratton's triple and two singles were the big noise for the Indians.

The loss by the Pirates made it two straight as they dropped Monday's game to the Giants, 4-3, with Whitman taking the loss and Mike Miller winning for the Giants. The scores:

AT PENN AVENUE

	♠ A Q 10 7 4 ♥ A J 7 ♦ J 10 5 ♣ Q 5

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♠

Opening lead—king of hearts.

The bidding followed standard lines. North's three spade bid was a typical double raise of partner's suit, showing 13 to 15 points, and at least four trumps.

South ducked the opening heart lead and West, taking note of his partner's discouraging deuce, shifted to the nine of diamonds. Declarer played low from dummy, and lost the diamond finesse to East's king. East returned the six of hearts, which South won with the ace. After drawing trumps, South played the queen of clubs, which lost to the ace. A heart return gave the defenders their setting trick, declarer losing two hearts, a diamond and a club.

Had South diagnosed the hand correctly, he would not have taken the diamond finesse. He was looking at ten potential tricks—five spades, a heart, two diamonds and two clubs. All he had to do was arrange the order of his plays to make sure he got them. Finessing the diamond at trick two was not part of the right order.

The first two plays are the crucial ones. South must refuse the king of hearts if he is to make the hand. He subjects himself to two heart losers if he wins the king. When the diamond is led, he should climb up with the ace, play the ace-queen of spades, and lead the queen of clubs. When East takes it and returns a heart, South wins the ace, gets to dummy, and disposes of the jack of hearts on a high club. The diamond is then conceded and the hand is made.

The objection to the diamond finesse is that if it loses, declarer makes only nine tricks. It is true that when it succeeds he makes eleven tricks, but declarer should not limit himself to an outcome of either nine or eleven tricks. His goal is ten tricks, and he should not take his eye off that goal.

The finesse is a profitable device in the declarer's bag of tricks, but is not supposed to be used when it jeopardizes the contract. The finesse was never intended as an instrument of self-destruction.

Market Climbs Moderately With 2-Million-Share Day

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP) — The first two-million-share day in a couple of weeks and a moderate general advance gave the stock market a fairly lively air today.

Leading stocks wound up with gains running from 1 to 2 points as steels and rails climbed aboard to make the rise practical unanimous among major divisions.

Late profit-taking sliced gains below their best of the day, however.

Steels stretched their early gains, which had been small, after word came that the steel companies had made a new contract proposal to the United Steelworkers. While the companies had already begun ordering fires banked in preparedness for a possible strike by midnight Saturday, the news from the bargaining table bolstered confidence.

Earlier, aircrafts, riding on the Senate's vote of an extra billion dollars for the air force, led the market higher, along with chemicals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 90 cents to $182.90 with the industrial component up $1.60, the rails 30 cents and the utilities 40 cents.

The day's most active stock was Panhandle Oil, up 1⅜ at 18¼ on 55,100 shares. Second was Penn-Texas, off 1¾ at 12⅞ on 44,300 shares. Third was General Motors up ⅜ at 45½ on 31,800.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Look The Part

Why does an older woman sometimes fail in a career, or lose out to a woman who's younger? Is it really because of her age, or are there other, more significant reasons?

Four buyers were recently fired from a big department store after years of satisfactory service. They were dismissed according to the chairman of the board because they didn't look as good as a woman holding a good position should look to uphold the standards of the store. He felt very definitely that they couldn't be a success unless they set a fashion and grooming example for their salespeople and customers.

In replacing them, he wanted not younger women particularly, but those whose point of view was young enough, flexible enough, to change when fashion changed, and who could adapt themselves to a swift-moving world. And this meant those who were willing to give thought to the clothes they wore, and to every aspect of an attractive, fashion-wise appearance.

What has all this to do with you if you're not a career woman? Your income, it's true doesn't depend on how you look. But, actually, don't you have the same responsibility to your husband, your family and your friends that a store executive has to a sales staff and customers? Just because your salad days are gone, is there any excuse for falling into dowdy habits, neglecting your hair and skin? It isn't age, remember, that matters most. It's frame of mind.

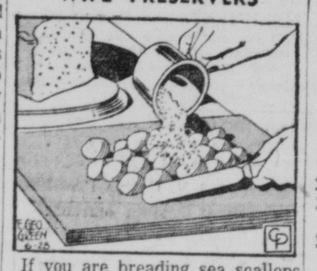

How you look is very important to the job you're doing and it isn't always business employees who are criticized — sometimes it's wives. Take an alert approach to your personal grooming program a weekly shampoo no matter how busy you are, regular care of your skin and nails, a freshly washed and ironed housecoat at breakfast, immaculate gloves, spotless white collars, spanking clean blouses. And let the same approach carry over to the care of the house you live in so it's a fresh and sparkling joy to come home to.

Tomorrow—Come to an understanding.

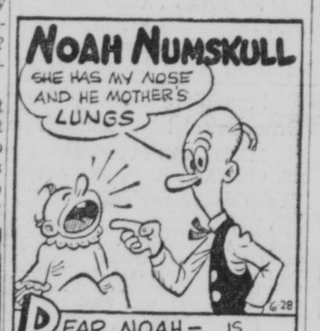

"WHAT'S YOUR LINE?"—Horizontal, vertical and diagonal lines make a world of difference in what clothing will do for (or to) your figure! Complete information on handling lines to best advantage. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 5c (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

L Z K Q K A N K A G B Z D V K P K I V K A P N A B
J D P Z K U H Q K P G J K I G H A F C Z H U
G J K N Z J K D Z G I — U N S G H A.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: I'VE WANDERED EAST, I'VE WANDERED WEST . . . BUT NEVER, NEVER CAN FORGET THE LOVE OF LIFE'S YOUNG DAY—MOTHERWELL.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

LZKQKANKAG BZDVK PKIVKAPNAB JDP ZKUHQKP GJK IGHAF CZHU GJKNZ JKDZGI—UNSGHA.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: I'VE WANDERED EAST, I'VE WANDERED WEST . . . BUT NEVER, NEVER CAN FORGET THE LOVE OF LIFE'S YOUNG DAY—MOTHERWELL.

'Twas the week before the 4th
When I looked at my car
The model was old,
Had been driven too far.

The upholstery was ripped,
The seat it was torn
The brakes didn't work
Neither did the horn.

The windshield was busted,
The old clutch was broke
The gas line was clogged,
And so was the choke.

I cried and I moaned
And started to fuss,
Something had to be done
About my old bus.

So I went to "THRIFTY"
And am now all aglow,
Just like his ads said
I got more for my dough.

Now I laugh at the bumps
And get mileage galore
My "THRIFTY" Car's swell
And here's something more:

"THRIFTY" sold me my car
On the Easy Pay Plan,
My Payments are small,
I'm a real happy man!!!

IT'S EASIER THAN YOU THINK TO BUY THEM ...

'Twas the week before the 4th
When I looked at my car
The model was old,
Had been driven too far.

The upholstery was ripped,
The seat it was torn
The brakes didn't work
Neither did the horn.

The windshield was busted,
The old clutch was broke
The gas line was clogged,
And so was the choke.

I cried and I moaned
And started to fuss,
Something had to be done
About my old bus.

So I went to "THRIFTY"
And am now all aglow,
Just like his ads said
I got more for my dough.

Now I laugh at the bumps
And get mileage galore
My "THRIFTY" Car's swell
And here's something more:

"THRIFTY" sold me my car
On the Easy Pay Plan,
My Payments are small,
I'm a real happy man!!!

IT'S EASIER THAN YOU THINK TO BUY THEM ...

Testimony Ends In Road Dispute Under Way Here

The last three of 27 witnesses to testify in a dispute involving an access road to Williams Road in the Twigtown section were heard yesterday by Chief Judge George Henderson in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The four attorneys participating in this equity suit will present their final argument to Judge Henderson at the Court House at 9:15 a. m. Thursday, July 5.

Testimony in the action brought by Jacob Mullenix against Bernard Baker was started Monday when 24 persons, most of them residents of the Murley's Branch Valley, testified. Arbutus Yonker, Matthew Dolly and Homer Willison were called to the witness stand in the auxiliary courtroom yesterday afternoon.

Mullenix contends that he has a righ to use a road through Baker's property to reach Williams Road because that is the only way he can get access to the main road Mullenix owns about 50 acres of mountainous terrain back of Baker's property which is along the south side of Williams Road.

The road in question had been used for logging operations as early as 1914, according to testimony. Mullenix is being represented by Thomas N. Berry and George R. Hughes Jr. while attorneys for Baker are Gorman E. Getty and Earl E. Manges.

Allegany County people are well represented in the current issue of Banking News, publication of the Maryland Banking Association.

The issue includes a photograph of William B. Yates, former president of Fidelity Savings Bank, who was named second vice president of the association. He is now executive vice president of the Citizens Bank of Takoma Park.

Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, is shown participating in the economic panel held during the association's 1956 convention. A digest of his address is included.

The calendar noted that Group 1 of the Maryland Bankers Association will meet September 27 at the Shrine Country Club here.

The magazine also noted the appointment of John J. McMullen as a member of the State Roads Commission, and the opening of the remodeled First National Bank.

Aerial Survey For Oak Wilt Planned Soon

Another aerial survey of the four Western Maryland counties in search of new plots of oak wilt probably will be undertaken early in July.

District Forester William H. Johnson and Dr. L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist at the University of Maryland, met at the Court House here this week with Bruce Grubb of the Blair-Bedford Airways, Inc., who will make the survey.

Details of the contract now are being completed. Grubb was contacted because his organization is making a similar survey in the central counties of Pennsylvania. Ernest Zebley of Martinsburg, W. Va., who had made the surveys of Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties in recent years, has moved to Delaware.

Last year only six plots of oak wilt were found in the four counties, compared with an average of about 18 plots in other years. The plots average about one-fourth-acre in area.

While oak wilt appears on the decline in Maryland, surveys have shown it is more prevalent in nearby areas of both West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Trumpet Larceny, Two Years Old, Cleared By Police

A two-year-old unsolved larceny case involving a trumpet has been cleared by City Police, who have returned the musical instrument to the owner.

On June 24, 1954, police received a complaint from W. C. Sponaugle, 230 Elder Street, that his son's trumpet was taken from the music room of Fort Hill High School.

This week, officer Roy C. Hawse was notified by the owner that he had seen it at the home of a friend. Upon investigation Officer Hawse recovered the trumpet and returned it to the owner. He said no charges will be preferred, although City Police Detective James E. Van is planning to question the person who had the horn.

Learn-To-Swim Program Planned For Adults At Y

A two-week "Learn-To-Swim" program for adults will begin on Monday evening, July 9, at Central YMCA.

James Fortner, physical director at the "Y," announced yesterday that interested men and women may register beginning on Monday, July 2, through Friday, July 6.

Registrations will close at 5 p.m. on July 6, Fortner pointed out. The class for men will be conducted Monday through Friday over the two-week period from 6:30 p.m., to 7:10 p.m.

The women's group will meet the same evenings from 7:15 p.m. to 7:55 p.m. Fortner will be in charge of the classes and will be assisted by John Morris.

Both instructors served with the youngster's campaign recently held at the pool and have had experience in teaching swimming skills.

The "Learn-To-Swim" program is part of the Red Feather agency's community-wide safety program, and is being sponsored by the physical department of Central YMCA.

Recent classes for youngsters disclosed that many parents do not know how to swim. Fortner added that with so many families enjoying the use of swimming facilities, there is a definite need for more widespread knowledge in aquatic fundamentals.

Two Are Hurt In Mishap On Baltimore St.

Two persons were injured, one being hospitalized, yesterday afternoon following a rather spectacular three-car crash on Baltimore Street near the Mechanic Street intersection.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital was Mrs. Cora Celestia Long, 38, of RFD 2, Frostburg, one of the drivers. She suffered an injury to her left arm.

An occupant in the Long car, John Wolfe Jr., 24, of RD 2, Frostburg, was treated at the hospital for a forehead laceration. The mishap occurred about 1:45 p. m. and attracted a large number of spectators.

Traffic along Baltimore Street and side streets was snarled.

City Police Officer John F. Daum said Mrs. Long had made a left turn onto Baltimore Street from North Mechanic Street.

A car driven by Heman Nelson Pettibone, of RD 1, Burton, Ohio, and another driven by L. H. Shafferman, 1116 Bedford Street, had stopped in their respective lanes on Baltimore Street waiting for the signal light to change.

After making the turn, Mrs. Long failed to recover and kept turning into the Ohio vehicle, knocking it into the left side of the Shafferman car.

Mrs. Long told Officer Daum she was learning to drive. She is being charged with reckless driving. The two victims were taken to the hospital in the Police ambulance by Officer Ernest M. Powell.

Lt. Raymond R. Johnston aided in directing traffic until the damaged vehicles were towed away from the scene.

County Shares In Record Md. Tax Collection

ANNAPOLIS, June 27 (AP) — A total of $7,546,573 is going in the mail to political subdivisions tonight and tomorrow to complete their share of the income tax collected by Maryland in the fiscal year which ends June 30.

They had previously received $6,939,787 as it was being collected.

It's the biggest total the State has ever paid cities and counties and is their part of a record tax haul by the State which is expected to gross around 86 million dollars.

Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the Income Tax Division, said the final overall figure has not yet been computed.

The $14,486,360 for subdivisions includes $4,336,360 in "windfall" money which accrued from the State adopting a pay-as-you-go income tax system last year. It is being sent only to counties and Baltimore City and carries a provision from the Legislature that it must be spent for capital improvements.

The remaining $10,150,000 is the regular share given counties, cities and towns of collections the State makes from persons living within their borders and has no restrictions on how it's spent. Normally they get 34 per cent of the amount collected but the Legislature froze the figure for this year in order to give the State more money toward balancing its budget.

The total distribution by counties:

Allegany $246,621.
Carroll $141,466.
Frederick $109,518.
Garrett $20,711.
Washington $385,973.

Local Entrants Will Compete In Md. Road-e-o

The two leading contestants in the recent local Teen-Age Road-e-o will leave here at 2:30 p. m. Friday to compete in the state finals scheduled Saturday at Western Maryland College in Westminster.

They are Henry D. Pfeiffer Jr., a student at Frostburg State Teachers College, who was the local winner and Milton D. Sarver of Fort Hill High School, the 1955 winner who was second this year. They will be accompanied to Westminster by Alvin Goodman, who served as chairman of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce committee which sponsored the project.

Friday night the contestants from throughout the state will take an additional written test, and the driving competition will start at 10 a. m. Saturday. An awards dinner is scheduled at the college for Saturday evening.

Pine Avenue Plans Program

A busy program at the Pine Avenue playground will begin at 10:30 a. m. today with a handicraft class, according to Mrs. Jean Etta Beckward, leader.

During the class belts will be made from yarn, hot pads from popsicle sticks and novelties from clothes pins. All children are asked to bring their own clothes pins.

At 7:30 o'clock this evening the talent show will be conducted. The winner will represent the playground in the city-wide competition at Constitution Park July 6. Cash prizes will go to the first, second and third prize winners. The weekly movie will be shown after the talent show.

Four softball teams have been organized at Pine Avenue. They are Peewees, Juniors, Seniors and Pigtails.

Police Officer Has Suspension Reduced 2 Days

Commission Cites Evidence In Case

A five-day suspension of a local policeman has been reduced to three days by a decision of the Civil Service Commission, which upheld one of two charges against the officer.

A hearing was held last Friday afternoon by the Commission on an appeal filed by Police Officer Charles E. Snider.

The group did not uphold the first charge, which was that Officer Snider failed to report for duty June 7 fully equipped (did not have a mace.)

The other charge was that he failed to go home after ordered to do so by the desk sergeant. The Commission in its findings on the first charge pointed out that "fully equipped" is nowhere defined as far as the hearing is concerned.

The requirement that each officer have a mace has been flagrantly disregarded and was not even enforced on the shift succeeding that when Officer Snider reported for duty, the Commission said.

The Commission ruled that departmental records are questionable insofar as the issuance of equipment is concerned and there were no signatures on the form showing that the equipment was issued.

Testimony was presented at Friday's meeting by Officer Snider who was represented by Peter J. Carpenti; by Sgt. James W. Brown, who was in charge of the 1 to 9 a. m. shift platoon on June 7; Sgt. George E. Pfeiffer, who was in charge of the desk at the time of the incident which resulted in the charges, and Officer Richard Lashley.

Officer Snider said he had never been issued a mace. A copy of equipment issued to him when he began work was submitted to Assistant Chief B. F. Gaffney and Commissioner William V. Keegan, but not as sworn evidence.

Officer Snider also testified to loaning a mace to Officer Lashley while the latter was on duty, and Lashley also testified to the incident.

Aerial Survey For Oak Wilt Planned Soon

Another aerial survey of the four Western Maryland counties in search of new plots of oak wilt probably will be undertaken early in July.

District Forester William H. Johnson and Dr. L. O. Weaver, plant pathologist at the University of Maryland, met at the Court House here this week with Bruce Grubb of the Blair-Bedford Airways, Inc., who will make the survey.

Details of the contract now are being completed. Grubb was contacted because his organization is making a similar survey in the central counties of Pennsylvania. Ernest Zebley of Martinsburg, W. Va., who had made the surveys of Garrett, Allegany, Washington and Frederick counties in recent years, has moved to Delaware.

Last year only six plots of oak wilt were found in the four counties, compared with an average of about 18 plots in other years. The plots average about one-fourth-acre in area.

While oak wilt appears on the decline in Maryland, surveys have shown it is more prevalent in nearby areas of both West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Two Are Hurt In Mishap On Baltimore St.

Two persons were injured, one being hospitalized, yesterday afternoon following a rather spectacular three-car crash on Baltimore Street near the Mechanic Street intersection.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital was Mrs. Cora Celestia Long, 38, of RFD 2, Frostburg, one of the drivers. She suffered an injury to her left arm.

An occupant in the Long car, John Wolfe Jr., 24, of RD 2, Frostburg, was treated at the hospital for a forehead laceration. The mishap occurred about 1:45 p. m. and attracted a large number of spectators.

Traffic along Baltimore Street and side streets was snarled.

City Police Officer John F. Daum said Mrs. Long had made a left turn onto Baltimore Street from North Mechanic Street.

A car driven by Heman Nelson Pettibone, of RD 1, Burton, Ohio, and another driven by L. H. Shafferman, 1116 Bedford Street, had stopped in their respective lanes on Baltimore Street waiting for the signal light to change.

After making the turn, Mrs. Long failed to recover and kept turning into the Ohio vehicle, knocking it into the left side of the Shafferman car.

Mrs. Long told Officer Daum she was learning to drive. She is being charged with reckless driving. The two victims were taken to the hospital in the Police ambulance by Officer Ernest M. Powell.

County Shares In Record Md. Tax Collection

ANNAPOLIS, June 27 (AP) — A total of $7,546,573 is going in the mail to political subdivisions tonight and tomorrow to complete their share of the income tax collected by Maryland in the fiscal year which ends June 30.

They had previously received $6,939,787 as it was being collected.

It's the biggest total the State has ever paid cities and counties and is their part of a record tax haul by the State which is expected to gross around 86 million dollars.

Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the Income Tax Division, said the final overall figure has not yet been computed.

The $14,486,360 for subdivisions includes $4,336,360 in "windfall" money which accrued from the State adopting a pay-as-you-go income tax system last year. It is being sent only to counties and Baltimore City and carries a provision from the Legislature that it must be spent for capital improvements.

The remaining $10,150,000 is the regular share given counties, cities and towns of collections the State makes from persons living within their borders and has no restrictions on how it's spent. Normally they get 34 per cent of the amount collected but the Legislature froze the figure for this year in order to give the State more money toward balancing its budget.

The total distribution by counties:

Allegany $246,621.
Carroll $141,466.
Frederick $109,518.
Garrett $20,711.
Washington $385,973.
